

Fires Mark Violence In Albuquerque

Damage Estimate Hits $3 Million In Disorders

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — A rash of fires, many of which city officials said were touched off by fire bombs, burned in widely scattered areas of Albuquerque early today after violence flared anew between authorities and crowds of young people.

Two days of disorders in this desert city of 300,000 left 15 persons wounded by gunfire, more than 250 persons arrested, police equipment destroyed and businesses looted and burned. Fire damage was unofficially estimated at almost $3 million.

The disturbances were touched off Sunday when police attempted to arrest some young people in crowded Roosevelt Park for public drinking.

At the height of the renewed violence Monday afternoon police, state troopers and National Guardsmen routed a cursing, missile-hurling crowd from the park.

Young people massed in the park hurled gasoline bombs and other missiles at the police and guardsmen, who responded with tear gas and a charge that sent most of the crowd in retreat. Police made 100 arrests.

The confrontation came at Chicano Hill in the park. Chicano is the name given to Mexican-Americans.

Five persons, including two guardsmen, were injured during the clash at the park and a disturbance with marching young people earlier Monday on a corner of the University of New Mexico campus.

One young man was shot in the back by police in the campus area, police said. He was reported in serious condition.

"After the combined efforts of all law enforcement agencies, including the New Mexico National Guard, the park has been cleared," Deputy Police Chief Don Daniel said Monday night. "It is quiet."

With darkness, however, came the fires. Guardsmen and police patrolled city streets but reported no organized disturbances involving large groups.

Area Suffers Rainfall Lack

Rainfall in Pickaway County during Sunday's thunderstorms varied from no measurable amount in some sections to two inches in East Ringgold, according to a report of the County Agricultural Extension Service.

Wayne Twp. farmers reported .75 inch; Pickaway Twp., .70 inch; Salt Creek Twp., .65 inch. In Darby Twp., total rainfall for the month of June is a scant .05 inch. Normal accumulation is 1.89 inches.

The deficit rainfall this year in the county is costly to area farmers and the county's economy. According to George Hamrick, extension agent, three inches of rain now is worth $3 million. Another week will be too late.

Normal annual precipitation through June 15 locally is 18.93 inches. True accumulation as recorded in Circleville is 12.83, a deficit of 6.10 inches for the year.

Great Miami River Yields Youth's Body

CINCINNATI (AP) — The body of a Northbrook youth, 18-year-old Edwin David Phelps was recovered Monday by divers in the Great Miami River.

Authorities said the body was found about 25 to 30 feet downstream from where it was last seen. Phelps was fishing Sunday with friends, who left and later returned to find him missing.

School Group Files Report

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ungraded classrooms and team teaching to provide quasi-individual instruction were among key recommendations made today by a Citizens' Commission on Public School Personnel Policies in Ohio.

The commission's report, presented to Gov. John Gilligan, recommends eliminating rigid age-grade classifications and the use of teacher teams to provide more flexible staffing for individual student needs.

Financed by foundation grants, the commission has contacted educators across the state in its study.

The report notes numerous schools in the state which have already had success with programs using team teaching, ungraded classes and flexible building space.

It said, "The state is dotted with small fires that need to be fanned."

Commission members said the traditional approach of one teacher to classroom of students, "has resulted in treating children as if all with a birthday in the same year have the same interests, abilities, motivations, and personal styles of learning."

They refused to recommend a model program, but said team teaching has proven to be a flexible arrangement for providing each child with the specific help he or she needs at any time.

Team teaching can also benefit teachers, who can obtain support in areas in which they may be weak, the report said.

Team teaching also helps new teachers by not isolating them in a classroom on the assumption they can take up full teaching responsibilities immediately.

Children may be stuck with a bad teacher a whole year or find themselves with a teacher with a clashing personality under the old system, the report said.

With team teaching, teachers share the responsibility of assessing each student and prescribing his needs. A child might find himself with a group of younger students one period if he is having trouble with reading, then assigned to an older group for another subject.

Team teaching also permits each teacher to specialize in "instructional materials" and

Charge Heath With Snub

LONDON (AP) — Three members of Queen Elizabeth's household have accused Prime Minister Edward Heath of snubbing diplomats by racing his sailboat instead of attending a royal ceremony in London.

Heath was racing his yacht Morning Cloud last Saturday during the trooping the color ceremony marking the queen's 45th birthday. The prime minister traditionally acts as host to the diplomatic corps at the ceremony.

The angry parliamentarians were Alan Fitch, John Silkin and Charles Morris, all members of the royal household as former managers of the opposition Labor party.

They indicated Monday they would carry the complaint to the House of Commons. There was no reply from Heath, who had the queen's permission to take part in the race, which he won.

Cincy School Board OKs Red-Ink Budget

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati School Board of Education has approved tentatively a 1972 deficit budget of nearly $78 million.

The $77,761,874 budget approved Monday is virtually the same as the initial 1971 budget submitted last June except for an additional $2,193,800 in pay raises. The proposed 1972 package is $15 million above that actually being spent this year, and nearly $16 million over the projected income, the Rev. Te-cumseh X. Graham, board finance chairman, reported.

2 Nonuplets Survive As 2 More Die

SYDNEY (AP) — Only two of the nine babies born to Mrs. Leonard Brodrick remained alive today, 60 hours after their birth, and the condition of the surviving boy and girl continued to cause concern, the hospital reported.

Two more of the nonuplets died early today and Monday night. Both were girls, one of them the first-born girl who weighed 2 pounds, 2 ounces and had appeared to have the best chance of survival.

Since the multiple birth early Sunday, each hospital bulletin had said her condition was "satisfactory considering her size." This was not said of the other surviving babies.

Two boys were stillborn, and two boys and a girl died Sunday night.

The latest hospital bulletin said the condition of the two surviving infants was unchanged, meaning they were still having breathing difficulties. The boy weighed 12 ounces and the girl about one pound.

The 29-year-old mother was bearing up well, a spokesman for the Royal Hospital for Women said.

Doctors said earlier Mrs. Brodrick suffered no medical complications as a result of the record multiple birth.

Informed sources said earlier that the babies were two months premature, but a hospital bulletin today said the period was 12 weeks. It said the babies were between six and eight inches long at birth.

Mrs. Brodrick and her 32-year-old husband, a meat salesman, have two other daughters, 5 and 4 years old. She had taken a Swedish fertility drug for a hormonal disorder.

Industrial Boost Fails To Excite

WASHINGTON (AP) — The sharpest jump in industrial production figures since settlement of the General Motors' strike has generated little excitement among President Nixon's economic advisers.

Despite a seven-tenths of one per cent increase in the Federal Reserve Board's reading of May industrial output, a spokesman for Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers said the jump was only moderately encouraging.

"It's nice to see it up, but I'm not going to go out and get excited about it," the spokesman said.

Escalation Was Foreseen

Goldwater Would Have Said So

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater says he suggested to former President Lyndon B. Johnson during the 1964 White House campaign they jointly tell the American people the Vietnam war would have to be widened with bombing and troops—no matter who won the presidency.

Goldwater, the 1964 Republican presidential nominee, said if Johnson had agreed, had "leveled with the American people" about the war, "he would have beaten me worse."

As it was, Johnson won in the nation's greatest landslide, with nearly 43 million votes to Goldwater's 27 million.

Goldwater disclosed his 1964 proposal in an interview Monday after the New York Times published a report indicating the Johnson administration agreed Sept. 7, 1964—during the campaign—that it probably would be necessary to bomb North Vietnam early in 1965.

Among considerations in that timing, the study said, was that "the President was in the midst of an election campaign in which he was presenting himself as the candidate of reason and restraint as opposed to the quixotic Barry Goldwater."

Goldwater said he knew even before his formal campaign began that North Vietnam would be bombed eventually and at least 500,000 American troops would have to be sent to South Vietnam.

Goldwater, who left his Arizona Senate seat to run for the White House and was elected to the Senate again in 1968, said his knowledge of the outlook in South Vietnam came not from the Johnson administration, but from his own contacts.

"I knew that there were plans being made for expansion of the war . . ." he said. "By putting two and two together, we came up with pretty much of a scenario of what Johnson was going to do."

"I could have opened my mouth. I was being pictured as bomb-happy. I was on the short end and I knew it. But to talk about it, I would have had to use secret information . . . And, frankly, who would have believed me? So I kept my mouth shut . . ."

Goldwater said he does not regret his decision. He said his election showing would have been better—although the outcome would not have been changed—had he disclosed in the campaign what he knew to be the likely course of the administration.

"But I couldn't have lived with myself," he said.

Mayor Fires Safety Director; Police Stage 'Sick' Walkout

CIRCLEVILLE (AP) — Mayor Richard Gerhardt Monday fired Robert Adkins as director of public safety, and the city police department promptly staged a walkout in protest of the action.

Police began their walkout with the third shift at 11 p.m. Monday. Chief of Police Robert Temple is operating the department with a skeleton crew and volunteer help.

The desk was manned by dispatcher Richard Lamb during the night and city council members Joe Bell and Frank Barnhill helped perform the duties of the department.

Reporting to work for the day shift this morning were Marcella Maughmer, the meter maid, and Jean Himrod, department clerk. Seven policemen called in "sick" on the two shifts involved.

EMPTY CRUISER — The Circleville Police Department cruisers remained parked today at City Hall as evidence of the protest walkout by police. The walkout was precipitated by the firing of Service Director Robert Adkins by Mayor Richard Gerhardt.

War Study Charges LBJ Concealed Ground Effort

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times reported today that a Pentagon study of the Vietnam war says President Johnson decided on April 1, 1965, that American ground forces would take the offensive because a month of bombing North Vietnam had showed air power wouldn't win the war.

Johnson ordered that the decision be kept secret, the Times said, and he carried out rapidly but in ways that would minimize any appearance of sudden changes in policy.

The Times report today was the third in a series which the newspaper is publishing on a 7,000-page study made in 1967-68 of how the United States went to war in Indochina. The study was ordered by the defense secretary in the Kennedy and Johnson administrations, Robert S. McNamara.

The Times report today covered the period, beginning in 1965, of increasing U.S. involvement in ground combat. It said:

Johnson's decision that U.S. troops would take the offensive was followed by another decision in mid-July to commit 44 battalions. The study said this decision was "perceived as a threshold—entrance into an Asian land war."

"The choice at that time was not whether or not to negotiate, it was not whether or not to hold on for a while or let go—the choice was viewed as winning or losing South Vietnam."

By the end of the year American forces in South Vietnam, which had numbered 27,000 on March 8, had risen to 184,214. Their mission was no longer defensive of installations but offensive "search and destroy" operations.

Air attacks on North Vietnam began on a sustained basis on March 2, 1965, in an effort to break the enemy's will and persuade Hanoi to stop the Viet Cong insurgency in the South.

"Once set in motion, however, the bombing effort seemed to stiffen rather than soften Hanoi's backbone . . . After a month of bombing with no response from the North Vietnamese, optimism began to wane."

"The U.S. was presented essentially with two options: (1) to withdraw unilaterally from Vietnam leaving the South Vietnamese to fend for themselves, or (2) to commit ground forces in pursuit of its objectives. A third option, that of drastically increasing the scope and scale of the bombing, was rejected because of the concomitant high risk of inviting Chinese intervention."

The decision to change the role of U.S. troops in Vietnam was made at an April 1-2 strategy session at the White House, the study says. The President changed the mission of 3,500 Marines who had landed at Da Nang on March 8 to defend the Da Nang airfield. He also decided to send ashore two more Marine battalions and increase support forces in South Vietnam by 18,000-20,000 men.

Lightning Kills Phone Lineman

A 22-year-old lineman for the General Telephone Co. was killed 4:30 p.m. Monday when a bolt of lightning struck a pole on which he was working.

The bolt apparently followed the wires to the pole where Arnold was working.

Taft Equates Goals Of Youth, Nixon

MOUNT VERNON, Ohio (AP) — Sen. Robert Taft Jr. told 100 graduating seniors at Mount Vernon Nazarene College Monday that the goals of youth and those of the Nixon administration are the same.

Taft told the commencement audience that "the cry of youth for peace now, for an end to the draft, for a clean environment, for decent housing, for educational opportunities for all Americans, for an end to poverty and despair are his goals of the Nixon administration."

He said the older and younger generations must learn to understand each other better. "While my generation must not downgrade the idealism of youth, your generation must build on the history of accomplishment and failure," Taft said.

He is survived by his widow, Carolyn Crawford Arnold; a daughter, Heather Coleen Arnold of the home; two sisters, Mrs. Eleanor Jane Kelley of West Milton; Miss Mary Katherine Arnold of 631 Elm Ave.; and maternal grandmother, Mrs. Mina North of 403 S. Scioto St.

He was a member of St. Joseph's Church, Knights of Columbus and a United States Navy veteran.

Requiem Mass will be celebrated 9:30 a.m. Friday at St. Joseph's Church with Msgr. George Buchmann officiating. Burial will be in St. Joseph's Cemetery.

Friends may call at the Deffenbaugh Funeral Home after 7 p.m. Wednesday. Rosary will be recited 7 p.m. Thursday.

'Blue Flu' Epidemic To End At 3 P.M.

Circleville Mayor Richard Gerhardt Monday fired Robert Adkins as director of public safety, and the city police department promptly staged a walkout in protest of the action.

Police began their walkout with the third shift at 11 p.m. Monday. Chief of Police Robert Temple is operating the department with a skeleton crew and volunteer help.

The desk was manned by dispatcher Richard Lamb during the night and city council members Joe Bell and Frank Barnhill helped perform the duties of the department.

Reporting to work for the day shift this morning were Marcella Maughmer, the meter maid, and Jean Himrod, department clerk. Seven policemen called in "sick" on the two shifts involved.

A SPOKESMAN for the police department said the "blue flu" would end at 3 p.m. today.

A letter notifying Adkins of his dismissal was hand delivered to his home at 4 p.m. Monday according to Mayor Gerhardt this morning. Adkins was not home at the time.

The mayor said today he had made repeated efforts to contact Adkins during the day but was unable to.

In the letter of dismissal, the mayor cited lack of discretion and conduct unbecoming the position, unwillingness to work, cooperate and carry out duties as directed as the reasons for the action.

The letter listed eight specific reasons for dismissal. They were: "(a) The physical state in which you would come to the police station . . . (b) Your irrational conduct during a recent council meeting . . . (c) several weeks ago I heard you using loud and abusive language to a councilman . . . (d) Despite repeated comments that no new procedures or policies be initiated until consultations were made with the chief involved and myself, you have proceeded without consultations . . . (e) Requests for action have either been ignored or not acted upon . . . (f) Derogatory remarks calculated to undermine operations have been made publicly about other departments . . . (g) On recent occasions misconduct of varying degrees of seriousness within the police department have been pointed out and little or no action taken . . . (h) For the last month evidently you do not feel it is necessary to attend department head meetings or city council meetings . . ."

ADKINS branded the charges made by the mayor as lies. He said he had been requested by the mayor to take actions that were legally and morally wrong and his refusal to do so was in part the cause of the mayor's action.

Adkins also said that he made no secret of the fact that he did not support the mayor

Actress Favors Sterilization

NEW YORK (AP)—Actress Shirley MacLaine, in the first speech by a woman in 137 years at the National Democratic Club, urged that more men be sterilized to reduce overpopulation.

"It's an easy operation," said the red-haired actress.

She was the first woman to speak at the club since 1834, the year of its founding, when a suffragette barged in and delivered a declaration on women's rights.

Miss MacLaine, mother of a 14-year-old daughter called overpopulation the world's biggest problem, and said the Democratic party should make it the key issue in 1972.

Fires Mark Violence In Albuquerque

Damage Estimate Hits $3 Million In Disorders

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — A rash of fires, many of which city officials said were touched off by fire bombs, burned in widely scattered areas of Albuquerque early today after violence flared anew between authorities and crowds of young people.

Two days of disorders in this desert city of 300,000 left 15 persons wounded by gunfire, more than 250 persons arrested, police equipment destroyed and businesses looted and burned. Fire damage was unofficially estimated at almost $3 million.

The disturbances were touched off Sunday when police attempted to arrest some young people in crowded Roosevelt Park for public drinking.

At the height of the renewed violence Monday afternoon police, state troopers and National Guardsmen routed a cursing, missile-hurling crowd from the park.

Young people massed in the park hurled gasoline bombs and other missiles at the police and guardsmen, who responded with tear gas and a charge that sent most of the crowd in retreat. Police made 100 arrests.

The confrontation came at Chicano Hill in the park. Chicano is the name given to Mexican-Americans.

Five persons, including two guardsmen, were injured during the clash at the park and a disturbance with marching young people earlier Monday on a corner of the University of New Mexico campus.

One young man was shot in the back by police in the campus area, police said. He was reported in serious condition.

"After the combined efforts of all law enforcement agencies, including the New Mexico National Guard, the park has been cleared," Deputy Police Chief Don Daniel said Monday night. "It is quiet."

With darkness, however, came the fires. Guardsmen and police patrolled city streets but reported no organized disturbances involving large groups.

Area Suffers Rainfall Lack

Rainfall in Pickaway County during Sunday's thunderstorms varied from no measurable amount in some sections to two inches in East Ringgold, according to a report of the County Agricultural Extension Service.

Wayne Twp. farmers reported .75 inch; Pickaway Twp., .70 inch; Salt Creek Twp., .65 inch. In Darby Twp., total rainfall for the month of June is a scant .05 inch. Normal accumulation is 1.89 inches.

The deficit rainfall this year in the county is costly to area farmers and the county's economy. According to George Hamrick, extension agent, three inches of rain now is worth $3 million. Another week will be too late.

Normal annual precipitation through June 15 locally is 18.93 inches. True accumulation as recorded in Circleville is 12.83, a deficit of 6.10 inches for the year.

School Group Files Report

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ungraded classrooms and team teaching to provide quasi-individual instruction were among key recommendations made today by a Citizens' Commission on Public School Personnel Policies in Ohio.

The commission's report, presented to Gov. John Gilligan, recommends eliminating rigid, age-grade classifications and the use of teacher teams to provide more flexible staffing for individual student needs.

With team teaching, teachers share the responsibility of assessing each student and prescribing his needs. A child might find himself with a group of younger students one period if he is having trouble with reading, then assigned to an older group for another subject.

Team teaching also permits each teacher to specialize in "instructional materials" and Justice Hugo L. Black, author of the majority opinion in the 5-4 decision, went out of his way Monday to caution from the bench that it does not signal approval of "any subterfuge" aimed at weakening school integration.

Still, this month, the court has declared apportionment plans fashioned by federal judges are outside the reach of the 1965 and 1970 voting rights law, that inner-city blacks do not have a right to their own legislative districts and now that Jackson could close its pools to avoid integrating them.

William M. Kunstler, the New York lawyer who had argued before the court the pool closings were "a badge of slavery," described the ruling as "unspeakably tragic" and "proof that black slavery is dead in name only."

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times reported today that a Pentagon study of the Vietnam war says President Johnson decided on April 1, 1965, that American ground forces would take the offensive because a month of bombing North Vietnam had showed air power wouldn't win the war.

Johnson ordered that the decision be kept secret, the Times said, and in ways that would minimize any appearance of sudden changes in policy.

The Times report today was the third in a series which the newspaper is publishing on a 7,000-page study made in 1967-68 of how the United States went to war in Indochina. The study was ordered by the defense secretary in the Kennedy and Johnson administrations, Robert S. McNamara.

The Times report today covered the period, beginning in 1965, of increasing U.S. involvement in ground combat. It said:

Johnson's decision that U.S. troops would take the offensive was followed by another decision in mid-July to commit 44 battalions. The study said this decision was "perceived as a threshold—entrance into an Asian land war."

"... The choice at that time was not whether or not to negotiate, it was not whether or not to hold on for a while or let go—the choice was viewed as winning or losing South Vietnam."

By the end of the year American forces in South Vietnam, which had numbered 27,000 on March 8, had risen to 184,214. Their mission was no longer defense of installations but offensive "search and destroy" operations.

Air attacks on North Vietnam began on a sustained basis on March 2, 1965, in an effort to break the enemy's will and persuade Hanoi to stop the Viet Cong insurgency in the South.

"Once set in motion, however, the bombing effort seemed to stiffen rather than soften Hanoi's backbone ... After a month of bombing with no response from the North Vietnamese, optimism began to wane.

"The U.S. was presented essentially with two options: (1) to withdraw unilaterally from Vietnam leaving the South Vietnamese to fend for themselves, or (2) to commit ground forces in pursuit of its objectives. A third option, that of drastically increasing the scope and scale of the bombing, was rejected because of the concomitant high risk of inviting Chinese intervention."

The decision to change the role of U.S. troops in Vietnam was made at an April 1-2 strategy session at the White House, the study says. The President changed the mission of 3,500 Marines who had landed at Da Nang on March 8 to defend the Da Nang airfield. He also decided to send ashore two more Marine battalions and increase support forces in South Vietnam by 18,000-20,000 men.

Lightning Kills Phone Lineman

A 22-year-old lineman for the General Telephone Co. was killed 4:30 p.m. Monday when a bolt of lightning struck a pole on which he was working.

Clarence (Eddie) Arnold of 415 S. Pickaway St. was working atop a pole on Julian Road in Fairfield County when lightning hit the wires.

The bolt apparently followed the wires to the pole where Arnold was working.

Born Oct. 8, 1948 in Circleville, he was the son of Noah C. and Bessie Brown Arnold, 631 Elm Ave., who survive.

He is survived by his widow, Carolyn Crawford Arnold; a daughter, Heather Coleen Arnold of the home; two sisters, Mrs. Eleanor Jane Kelley of West Milton; Miss Mary Katherine Arnold of 631 Elm Ave.; and maternal grandmother, Mrs. Mina North of 403 S. Scioto St.

He was a member of St. Joseph's Church, Knights of Columbus and a United States Navy veteran.

Requiem Mass will be celebrated 9:30 a.m. Friday at St. Joseph's Church with Msgr. George Buchmann officiating. Burial will be in St. Joseph's Cemetery.

Friends may call at the Defenbaugh Funeral Home after 7 p.m. Wednesday. Rosary will be recited 7 p.m. Thursday.

'Blue Flu' Epidemic To End At 3 P.M.

Circleville Mayor Richard Gerhardt Monday fired Robert Adkins as director of public safety, and the city police department promptly staged a walkout in protest of the action.

Police began their walkout with the third shift at 11 p.m. Monday. Chief of Police Robert Temple is operating the department with a skeleton crew and volunteer help.

The desk was manned by dispatcher Richard Lamb during the night and city council members Joe Bell and Frank Barnhill helped perform the duties of the department.

Reporting to work for the day shift this morning were Marcella Maughmer, the meter maid, and Jean Himrod, department clerk. Seven policemen called in "sick" on the two shifts involved.

A SPOKESMAN for the police department said the "blue flu" would end at 3 p.m. today.

A letter notifying Adkins of his dismissal was hand delivered to his home at 4 p.m. Monday according to Mayor Gerhardt this morning. Adkins was not home at the time.

The mayor said today he had made repeated efforts to contact Adkins during the day but was unable to.

In the letter of dismissal, the mayor cited lack of discretion and conduct unbecoming the position, unwillingness to work, cooperate and carry out duties as directed as the reasons for the action.

The letter listed eight specific reasons for dismissal. They were: (a) The physical state in which you would come to the police station ... (b) Your irrational conduct during a recent council meeting ... (c) several weeks ago I heard you using loud and abusive language to a councilman ... (d) Despite repeated comments that no new procedures or policies be initiated until consultations were made with the chief involved and myself, you have proceeded without consultations ... (e) Requests for action have either been ignored or not acted upon ... (f) Derogatory remarks calculated to undermine operations have been made publicly about other departments ... (g) On recent occasions misconduct of varying degrees of seriousness within the police department have been pointed out and little or no action taken ... (h) For the last month evidently you do not feel it is necessary to attend department head meetings or city council meetings ...

ADKINS branded the charges made by the mayor as lies. He said he had been requested by the mayor to take actions that were legally and morally wrong and his refusal to do so was in part the cause of the mayor's action.

Adkins also said that he made no secret of the fact that he did not support the mayor.

Actress Favors Sterilization

NEW YORK (AP)—Actress Shirley MacLaine, in the first speech by a woman in 137 years at the National Democratic Club, urged that more men be sterilized to reduce overpopulation.

"It's an easy operation," said the red-haired actress.

She was the first woman to speak at the club since 1831, the year of its founding, when a suffragette barged in and delivered a declaration on women's rights.

Miss MacLaine, mother of a 14-year-old daughter called overpopulation the world's biggest problem, and said the Democratic party should make it the key issue in 1972.

Scouting In Changing World Is Kiwanis Program Topic

"Scouting is changing to fit the needs in a changing world." This was the message delivered to Circleville Kiwanis members Monday night by Bernard Berlow, professional scoutmaster for Pickaway, Fayette and Highland counties.

BERNARD BERLOW

Surveys have been made and programs established to fill the needs of young people of scouting age. Such a program has been established at Orient State Institute where interested men have volunteered to serve in programs for handicapped children.

This, according to Berlow, is one of the changes instituted in scouting where boys in the movement feel their experiences should be passed along to others.

Some ideals listed are to build citizenship — get along with others and to build bodies as well as spirit.

New in Explorer units is no uniform and no rank advancement. Fun, learning and experience are gained through mutual interest programs. Examples given were chemistry, airport management, and canoeing.

"Scouting in a changing world reaches out to all, said Berlow, whether inter city, suburban or country such as Appalachia, seeking to provide programs to match the boys needs." National surveys in 1968 showed 25 per cent of all boys were reached. The present goal is 33 per cent.

Berlow, who earned a degree in mathematics from OSU in 1967, lives on a farm near Jeffersonville. He attained his Eagle Scout Rank as a boy, was assistant scoutmaster of Cleveland troops and entered professional scouting for the Boy Scouts of America in 1970.

Guests at the weekly Kiwanis meet was John Owens, son of member, Doc Owens. John is home on leave from duty with the U.S. Navy.

Announcements made concerned the club's family picnic to be held next Monday at Ted Lewis Park. Reservations may be made or modified until June 17 with Dr. Fraas or Bert Bennett.

Internship In Psychology Is Completed

MRS. OPAL SIMS

Mrs. Opal Sims, 71 N. Pickaway St., has completed a year's internship in school psychology with the public schools in Lancaster. This announcement was made today by Frank Binni Administrative Assistant for Personnel and Community Relations of the Lancaster City Schools.

Mrs. Sims was formerly employed by the Pickaway County Schools and elementary supervisor. She has now accepted a position as Curriculum Coordinator and School Psychologist in the Logan Elm School District. Her recently completed training of three years beyond the Masters' Degree level qualifies her to work with school personnel and parents in helping children overcome school-related academic and behavior problems.

Her duties as a school psychologist will include curriculum modification, teacher consultation, individual testing, special school placements of exceptional children and working with parents. She will also refer children and their parents to specialists in vision, hearing and medicine for diagnosis and treatment of unusual mental which interfere with learning.

Mrs. Sims' qualifications as a certified teacher, supervisor, principal and school psychologist place her among the best trained educators in Ohio.

HONOLULU (AP)—A search continues over the Pacific Ocean today for an Air Force jet which disappeared between American Samoa and Hawaii while on a classified mission.

Five Air Force planes, a Navy destroyer and a British merchant vessel were engaged in the search.

The only trace of the four-engine C135 and its 24 passengers and crewmen was a small, unidentifiable debris and a crash position indicator — an emergency radio beacon—found 200 miles north of Palmyra Island Sunday evening after the aircraft vanished.

A spokesman at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base in Ohio said the plane was based there. He said eight crew members were assigned to the aeronautical system division at the base. Twelve civilians were included on the passenger list released by the Air Force.

The plane was en route to Hickam Air Force Base on a 2,227 - mile flight from Pago Pago.

Piqua Man Nabbed In Lima Shooting

LIMA, Ohio (AP)—Gary E. Franklin, 24, of Piqua, was arrested by police on a first-degree murder warrant shortly before midnight Monday night in the shooting death of a Cincinnati man.

Floyd G. Smith, 22, was killed early Sunday when he was shot in the head as he was walking past a Lima residence. Police said the shooting apparently stemmed from a sidewalk argument not involving Smith.

Franklin is being held without bond. Police say arraignment may be later today in Municipal Court.

Viet Action Heavy Below DMZ

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese gunners heavily shelled allied positions below the demilitarized zone Monday night, and U.S. B52 bombers retaliated with another round of heavy blows on enemy forces menacing South Vietnam's northern provinces.

It was the third successive day of saturation air raids in the northern sector.

North Vietnamese gunners fired 200 mortar shells into South Vietnamese marines nine miles east of Khe Sanh. The area had been hit hard by the B52s, and the marines were making a sweep to assess the damage done by the big bombs.

One wave of the B52s dropped 90 tons of explosives on sites a mile south of the DMZ from which the North Vietnamese were believed to be firing.

There was no indication of the bomb damage found by the sweeping marines, but field reports said five marines were killed and 15 were wounded in the four-hour mortar attack.

North Vietnamese gunners also fired 15 mortar shells at U.S. troops of the 1st Brigade, 5th Mechanized Infantry Division, who were operating four miles south of the DMZ near Fire Base Charlie 2. The U.S. Command said some Americans were wounded but none was killed.

House GOP 'Paralyzed' State Tax, Says Gilligan

ASHLAND, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John J. Gilligan told Buckeye Boys State delegates Monday night that legislative action on a state tax program has been "paralyzed" by the Republican majority in the Ohio House.

"The legislative procedures of approving a budget for state operations for the next biennium and funding the programs through adequate tax revenues have ground to a halt—and the House now sits paralyzed, while the weeks roll on," he said.

Gilligan said the GOP majority is abusing its advantage in the House and said the Republican party "violated the rules of the House, virtually eliminating any possibility of bipartisan cooperation in the passage of this legislation—and then revealed itself to be incapable of producing the votes needed to act."

By contrast, the Buckeye Boys State legislature Monday introduced bills calling for a graduated income tax and revision of the Ohio Constitution, and both were expected to be passed quickly.

Boys State Gov. Jessie Roberson of Shaker Heights delivered his state of the state address Monday and proposed the two bills that were introduced to the legislature.

Some 1,360 boys who will be high school seniors in the fall are attending the week-long conference on the Ashland College campus.

Gilligan praised the boys for their interest in government and said there is public apathy in many areas toward the democratic process.

"Many of those who don't vote no doubt see politics as irrelevant to their lives," he said, "and a major reason for this sense of irrelevance stems from their belief that they simply don't have a voice in political decisions, that they have no effect on the course of this nation."

Jurors Favor Dresbach

A jury returned a decision Monday in favor of Ned H. Dresbach and Circleville Pumpkin Show, Inc. in a money claim filed by Charles Hutchinson.

Hutchinson was asking $10,000 damages for injuries he received in a scuffle with Pumpkin Show director Ned Dresbach in October, 1969.

The jurors retired to deliberate the testimony of Dresbach, the boy and a friend shortly before 3 p.m. An hour later, the twelve returned to the courtroom with a judgment against the youth's petition, supported by unanimous vote.

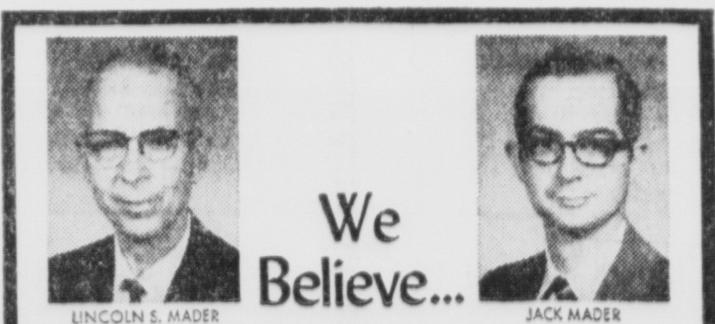

Members of the jury were: Joseph C. Peters, Margie M. Frazier, Zelma Gardner, Mary Alice Walker, Helen Evon Schumm, Samuel T. Ross, Elizabeth Zimmerman, Steve Jones, Eugene E. Clifton, Wayne F. Lowery, Lowell White and Ralph E. Jasper.

bring the use of tape recorders, overhead projectors and video tape to children who would not benefit from these aids if their lone teacher were not trained in their use.

The report also advocates training more teacher aids to allow teachers to devote attention to the professional and problem areas where their training is most needed.

In addition, it notes that teacher promotions "lead away from the classroom," and suggests provision should be made for promoting good teachers without channeling them into administration and away from teaching.

Stiff Penalty Levied For Vandalism

Paul Cornwell, 106½ E. Franklin St., was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in the county jail for malicious destruction of property.

Municipal Court Judge Sterling Lamb levied the sentence against Cornwell Monday when he pleaded guilty to breaking the radio antenna of an automobile at Harold Moats Used Car Lot. He was cited by Circleville Patrolman David L. Tait.

Dorsey L. Reilly, Columbus, forfeited a $50 bond for carrying a concealed weapon. Charged by the Ohio State Highway Patrol, the weapon was a comb with a retractable spike.

Roger Derr, 19, 405 S. Pickaway St., was fined $20 and costs today by acting judge Allan Burger. He was charged with operating an unsafe motor vehicle.

Violet Thompson, 46, Columbus, was fined $150 and costs, sentenced to three days in jail and had her driving rights suspended for six months for driving while intoxicated.

Charles R. Davis, 28, Route 1, Kingston, was fined $25 and costs for reckless operation. Harold Alvin Haddock, 35, Route 5, was fined $25 and costs for operating a motorcycle without a motorcycle endorsement on his driver's license.

Steven Ramsey, Columbus, forfeited a $24 bond for fishing without a license.

Looting Hits Hudson Town

NEWBURGH, N.Y. (AP) — A section of this lower Hudson Valley city was barricaded and guarded by police Monday night during sporadic looting and vandalism by roving groups of mostly young persons.

Police reported a dozen arrests on disorderly conduct and related charges.

St. Luke's Hospital reported treating 25 persons for a variety of injuries related to the disturbances. Two suffered minor gunshot wounds.

The trouble began early in the afternoon after students were released from examinations at Newburgh Free Academy, the city's public high school. It has about 2,100 pupils.

Banker, Airline Chief Back Lockheed Plea

WASHINGTON (AP) — A banker and an airline executive have told Congress government aid may be required for American business to meet competition of subsidized foreign enterprises.

The advice came from William H. Moore, chairman of Bankers Trust Company, and Charles C. Tillinghast Jr., Trans World Airlines chairman, in testimony supporting a government loan guarantee to keep Lockheed Aircraft Corp. from bankruptcy.

Internship In Psychology Is Completed

MRS. OPAL SIMS

Mrs. Opal Sims, 71 N. Pickaway St., has completed a year's internship in school psychology in Lancaster. This announcement was made today by Frank Binni, Administrative Assistant for Personnel and Community Relations of the Lancaster City Schools.

Mrs. Sims was formerly employed by the Pickaway County Schools and elementary supervisor. She has now accepted a position as Curriculum Coordinator and School Psychologist in the Logan Elm School District. Her recently completed training of three years beyond the Masters' Degree level qualifies her to work with school personnel and parents in helping children overcome school-related academic and behavior problems.

Her duties as a school psychologist will include curriculum modification, teacher consultation, individual testing, special school placements of exceptional children and working with parents. She will also refer children and their parents to specialists in vision, hearing and medicine for diagnosis and treatment of unusual mental which interfere with learning.

Mrs. Sims' qualifications as a certified teacher, supervisor, principal and school psychologist place her among the best trained educators in Ohio.

HONOLULU (AP) — A search continues over the Pacific Ocean today for an Air Force jet which disappeared between American Samoa and Hawaii while on a classified mission.

Five Air Force planes, a Navy destroyer and a British merchant vessel were engaged in the search.

The only trace of the four-engine C135 and its 24 passengers and crewmen was some unidentified debris and a crash position indicator — an emergency radio beacon — found 200 miles north of Palmyra Island Sunday evening after the aircraft vanished.

A spokesman at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base in Ohio said the plane was based there. He said eight crew members were assigned to the aeronautical system division at the base. Twelve civilians were included on the passenger list released by the Air Force.

The plane was en route to Hickam Air Force Base on a 2,227-mile flight from Pago Pago.

Piqua Man Nabbed In Lima Shooting

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — Gary E. Franklin, 24, of Piqua, was arrested by police on a first-degree murder warrant shortly before midnight Monday night in the shooting death of a Cincinnati man.

Floyd G. Smith, 22, was killed early Sunday when he was shot in the head as he was walking past a Lima residence. Police said the shooting apparently stemmed from a sidewalk argument not involving Smith.

Franklin is being held without bond. Police say arraignment may be later today in Municipal Court.

Viet Action Heavy Below DMZ

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese gunners heavily shelled allied positions below the demilitarized zone Monday night, and U.S. B52 bombers retaliated with another round of heavy blows on enemy forces menacing South Vietnam's northern provinces.

It was the third successive day of saturation air raids in the northern sector.

North Vietnamese gunners fired 200 mortar shells into South Vietnamese marines nine miles east of Khe Sanh. The area had been hit hard by the B52s, and the marines were making a sweep to assess the damage done by the big bombers.

One wave of the B52s dropped 90 tons of explosives

ers to North Vietnamese forces infiltrating from Laos and the DMZ.

There was no indication of the bomb damage found by the sweeping marines, but field reports said five marines were killed and 15 were wounded in the four-hour mortar attack.

North Vietnamese gunners also fired 15 mortar shells at U.S. troops of the 1st Brigade, 5th Mechanized Infantry Division, who were operating four miles south of the DMZ near Fire Base Charlie 2. The U.S. Command said some Americans were wounded but none was killed.

By contrast, the Buckeye Boys State legislature Monday introduced bills calling for a graduated income tax and revision of the Ohio Constitution, and both were expected to be passed quickly.

Boys State Gov. Jessie Roberson of Shaker Heights delivered his state of the state address Monday and proposed the two bills that were introduced to the legislature.

Gilligan praised the boys for their interest in government and said there is public apathy in many areas toward the democratic process.

"Many of those who don't vote no doubt see politics as irrelevant to their lives," he said, "and a major reason for this sense of irrelevance stems from their belief that they simply don't have a voice in political decisions, that they have no effect on the course of this nation."

"For the second time in two years the City Police have chosen to disregard the safety of the city and its people by walking off their jobs," Mayor Gerhardt said today.

"This irresponsible action toward the public points out very vividly the difficulties and problems which have recently occurred within the department."

"This city cannot and will not be allowed to be run by the employees of a department not intimidated by threats," he concluded.

Stock List Near Even

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was characterized by very slow trading today as blue chips moved slightly higher, but most issues continued on the downside.

Volume of 5.86 million shares at noon, compared with 5.33 million shares at the same time Monday, the slowest trading day in five months.

The noon Dow Jones average of 39 industrial stocks was up 0.75 at 908.44.

Among issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange, declines maintained a lead of about 2 to 1 over advances.

Analysts attributed the market's weakness to expectations that a prime rate increase by a major Pennsylvania bank Monday would spread and that the Federal Reserve might soon raise its discount rate.

Brokers said the slow turnover, however, indicated that many investors were sitting out the prime rate reaction.

House GOP 'Paralyzed' State Tax, Says Gilligan

ASHLAND, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John J. Gilligan told Buckeye Boys State delegates Monday night that legislative action on a state tax program has been "paralyzed" by the Republican majority in the Ohio House.

"The legislative procedures of approving a budget for state operations for the next biennium and funding the programs through adequate tax revenues have ground to a halt—and the House now sits paralyzed, while the weeks roll on," he said.

Gilligan said the GOP majority is abusing its advantage in the House and said the Republican party "violated the rules of the House, virtually eliminating any possibility of bipartisan co-operation in the passage of this legislation—and then revealed itself to be incapable of producing the votes needed to act."

A jury returned a decision Monday in favor of Ned H. Dresbach and Circleville Pumpkin Show, Inc. in a money claim filed by Charles Hutchinson.

Hutchinson was asking $10,000 damages for injuries he received in a scuffle with Pumpkin Show director Ned Dresbach in October, 1969.

The jurors retired to deliberate the testimony of Dresbach, the boy and a friend shortly before 3 p.m. An hour later, the twelve returned to the courtroom with a judgment against the youth's petition, supported by unanimous vote.

Members of the jury were: Joseph C. Peters, Margie M. Frazier, Zelma Gardner, Mary Alice Walker, Helen Evon Schumm, Samuel T. Ross, Elizabeth Zimmerman, Steve Jones, Eugene E. Clifton, Wayne F. Lowery, Lowell White and Ralph E. Jasper.

Workmen Dam Creek Above Poison Lake

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP)—Workmen labored Sunday to dam Turkey Creek above poisoned Pond Lick Reservoir and construct a pipeline around the lake.

Federal officials said activated carbon dumped into the lake Friday to absorb pesticides discovered in the water had begun to take effect, but that the water remained dangerous.

Gary Hiles, 24, of Portsmouth, was being held in the Scioto County Jail on five charges in connection with the poisoning. He is accused of dumping a gallon of strychnine-soaked corn and a half gallon of Endrin into the lake.

Officials believed the only danger from the poisoned water was the possibility that heavy rains might raise the water level and cause some to spill over into the lower portion of the creek.

To counteract this possibility, a huge filter was under construction at the spillway leading from the reservoir and sandbags were set up around the lake. Rainfall over the weekend was slight, however.

As a further precaution, access roads to the lake were blocked to the public and residents below the reservoir were warned not to use any water from the creek.

The poison killed all aquatic life in the lake, including about 3,400 fish and a large number of frogs, crawfish and snakes. In addition, dead crawfish were found as far as a half mile below the reservoir.

Officials earlier were planning to rechannel the creek around the reservoir, but dropped the idea temporarily in favor of the pipeline.

The channel might be considered once again if the carbon fails to absorb enough of the poison.

No motive has been given for the poisoning.

Lightning Is Costly To Property Owners

CHICAGO (AP)—The Lightning Protection Institute says playing the odds against a lightning strike cost some 3,200 American business property owners over a quarter billion dollars in 1970.

The institute said the average loss to each building struck by lightning was $88,000.

Additional millions of dollars were lost by homeowners to lightning damage to roofs, chimneys, wiring, TV sets and other appliances.

Lightning-ignited fires leveled or gutted more than 2,000 houses. Each homeowner's loss was more than $5 thousand.

Emergence Of Red China As Superpower Eyed Worriedly

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Red China, displaying political, diplomatic and nuclear muscle is starting to look like a bona fide superpower. Its claims to that status could, eventually, complicate efforts to curb the arms race and could contribute to something in the nature of a global crisis of security.

China asserts her claim to a corner of the world's power triangle at a time when some students of world affairs find the United States showing signs of weariness with the role of "world leadership." They detect a large area of American self-doubt that can tend to reduce U.S. ability to influence events.

The Russians, occupying the third corner of the triangle, seem to read the American mood as promising prosperity for Soviet world aims. They see the United States forced to reduce drastically its military commitments all around the world.

Such developments raise new anxieties in an already anxious world, especially since Peking's scientists are expected any day to test an intercontinental ballistic missile. That explosion, punctuating a story of spectacular Red Chinese success in nuclear arms development since 1964, will reverberate ominously at SALT, the Soviet-American talks on strategic arms limitation.

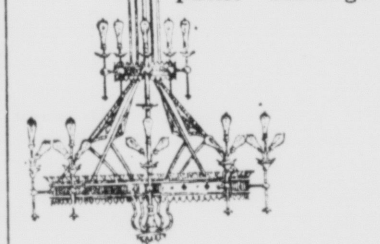

After 19 months of squabbling at SALT over how to blunt the

GOOD OLD KEEPSAKES

THE collector who has acquired relics from old family structures, or been a perceptive acquirer from junkshops, can be a spectacular exhibitor of devices that revolutionized illumination during the 1870's.

Chandeliers as structural as illustrated here, with over a dozen of Edison incandescent lamps, replaced the earlier Brush electric arc lights in public buildings.

After kerosene or "coal oil" was marketed in relatively safe, non-explosive forms, use of burners of whale oil and similar fuels petered out. But kerosene lamps had formidable rivals before electric lights.

Wall - bracketed kerosene burners like this and other types provided made reading easier for all.

Gas - lighting - artificial or natural - was better illumination than oil, but much of its potential was wasted in designs as spectacular, or ugly, as this representation of a mythical creature.

However, original oil and gas lamps can be electrified, as suggested above, for utility by the collector, with candle stands, rush lights, and lanterns for side effects.

terrifying threat of a super-weapons race seeming to escalate itself automatically, a ray of hope has appeared. President Nixon indicates a treaty is possible on how to deal with defensive missile systems and suggests a possibility also of some sort of understanding on restraint in producing offensive rockets.

But there would be a impetus for renewed arms competition should either Moscow or Washington or both feel a need of more shield against a burgeoning Communist Chinese arsenal.

Ever since the nuclear age began a quarter-century ago, Moscow has striven to march U.S. might.

At present, the Russians and Americans are concerned chiefly with one another's huge arsenal. That standoff has produced an uneasy peace by menace as each side strives to maintain, as a minimum, equality of destructive power. For years the two superpowers were caught, as it trapped, in what had the look of a mutual deterrence madness.

In the view of one prominent nuclear scientist, Dr. Ralph Lapp, the race produced a situation in which technology seemed out of control, dominated not by men but by a sort of inhuman, insane logic of its own.

The Russians, noting long-range U.S. punch, built a defensive missile system to protect Moscow. By American reckoning, that reduced U.S. "deterrent credibility" and Washington sought more offensive clout.

The Americans built multiple warhead missiles. So did the Russians. The American MIRVs and Russian SS9s now are topics of discussion at SALT, but their qualitative differences make a meeting of minds extremely difficult. How many warheads on a MIRV? On an SS9? How many megatons, how much kill? Can one compare apples and grapes?

China's assertion of her place in the power triangle conceivably could upset SALT by providing a new spur for American and Soviet deployment of missiles.

Moscow has been pursuing a sometimes bewildering policy, blending promise of détente with denunciation and veiled threat. Some analysts believe

Moscow wants to "Finlandize" Western Europe—that is, neutralize it—and, after reducing U.S. authority and influence in Europe, to devote more attention to dealing with the Chinese in Asia.

China's diplomacy also has been perplexing of late. It has involved the "Ping Pong" technique of people-to-people smiles against a background of unremitting tirade against the U.S., Soviet and Japanese governments. While obviously trying to improve its image and gain wider recognition, Peking retreats not an inch from total support for violent revolution and guerrilla war.

Red China's nuclear punch is negligible compared with the enormous might of the Americans and Russians. But the Oriental colossus, with three-quarters of a billion people, can boast an arsenal and a growing stable of delivery vehicles. That gives wallop to a diplomacy aimed at achieving U.N. membership, a goal now clearly in sight.

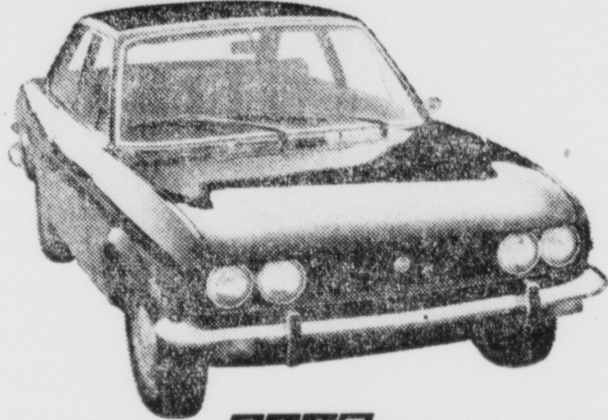

Some ask: If the current U.S. mood persuaded Washington to retire gradually to preponderant reliance on strategic nuclear clout and a buildup of smaller tactical nuclear weapons to make up for the withdrawal of U.S. troops? That, in the view of experts, would raise a risk that tactical weapons would come into play and threaten escalation to the strategic level.

Both sides at the SALT talks are acutely aware of all the possibilities, as they are aware, also, of the two times in recent years when the Russians and Americans edged close to the rim of nuclear calamity. Should China so complicate the picture that SALT fails, what then?

A Yugoslav commentator speculated recently that the "China factor" might in the long run "push the United States and the Soviet Union toward sanity."

Lightning Is Costly To Property Owners

CHICAGO (AP)—The Lightning Protection Institute says playing the odds against a lightning strike cost some 3,200 American business property owners over a quarter billion dollars in 1970.

The institute said the average loss to each building struck by lightning was $88,000.

Additional millions of dollars were lost by homeowners to lightning damage to roofs, chimneys, wiring, TV sets and other appliances.

Lightning-ignited fires leveled or gutted more than 2,000 houses. Each homeowner's loss was more than $5 thousand.

Emergence Of Red China As Superpower Eyed Worriedly

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Red China, displaying political, diplomatic and nuclear muscle is starting to look like a bona fide superpower. Its claims to that status could, eventually, complicate efforts to curb the arms race and could contribute to something in the nature of a global crisis of security.

China asserts her claim to a corner of the world's power triangle at a time when some students of world affairs find the United States showing signs of weariness with the role of "world leadership." They detect a large area of American self-doubt that can tend to reduce U.S. ability to influence events.

The Russians, occupying the third corner of the triangle, seem to read the American mood as promising prosperity for Soviet world aims. They see the United States forced to reduce drastically its military commitments all around the world.

Such developments raise new anxieties in an already anxious world, especially since Peking's scientists are expected any day to test an intercontinental ballistic missile. That explosion, punctuating a story of spectacular Red Chinese success in nuclear arms development since 1964, will reverberate ominously at SALT, the Soviet-American talks on strategic arms limitation.

After 19 months of squabbling at SALT over how to blunt the terrifying threat of a super-weapons race seeming to escalate itself automatically, a ray of hope has appeared. President Nixon indicates a treaty is possible on how to deal with defensive missile systems and suggests a possibility also of some sort of understanding on restraint in producing offensive rockets.

But there would be an impetus for renewed arms competition should either Moscow or Washington or both feel a need of more shield against a burgeoning Communist Chinese arsenal.

Ever since the nuclear age began a quarter-century ago, Moscow has striven to march U.S. might.

At present, the Russians and Americans are concerned chiefly with one another's huge arsenal. That standoff has produced an uneasy peace by menace as each side strives to maintain, as a minimum, equality of destructive power. For years the two superpowers were caught, as it trapped, in what had the look of a mutual deterrence madness.

In the view of one prominent nuclear scientist, Dr. Ralph Lapp, the race produced a situation in which technology seemed out of control, dominated not by men but by a sort of inhuman, insane logic of its own.

The Russians, noting long-range U.S. punch, built a defensive missile system to protect Moscow. By American reckoning, that reduced U.S. "deterrent credibility" and Washington sought more offensive clout.

The Americans built multiple warhead missiles. So did the Russians, the American MIRVs and Russian SS9s now are topics of discussion at SALT, but their qualitative differences make a meeting of minds extremely difficult. How many warheads on a MIRV? On an SS9? How many megatons, how much kill? Can one compare apples and grapes?

China's assertion of her place in the power triangle conceivably could upset SALT by providing a new spur for American and Soviet deployment of missiles.

Moscow has been pursuing a sometimes bewildering policy, blending promise of détente with denunciation and veiled threat. Some analysts believe

Moscow wants to "Finlandize" Western Europe—that is, neutralize it—and, after reducing U.S. authority and influence in Europe, to devote more attention to dealing with the Chinese in Asia.

China's diplomacy also has been perplexing of late. It has involved the "Ping Pong" technique of people-to-people smiles against a background of unrelenting tirade against the U.S., Soviet and Japanese governments. While obviously trying to improve its image and gain wider recognition, Peking retreats not an inch from total support for violent revolution and guerrilla war.

Red China's nuclear punch is negligible compared with the enormous might of the Americans and Russians. But the Oriental colossus, with three-quarters of a billion people, can boast an arsenal and a growing stable of delivery vehicles. That gives wallop to a diplomacy aimed at achieving U.N. membership, a goal now clearly in sight.

Some ask: If the current U.S. mood persuaded Washington to retire gradually to preponderant reliance on strategic nuclear clout and a buildup of smaller tactical nuclear weapons to make up for the withdrawal of U.S. troops? That, in the view of experts, would raise a risk that tactical weapons would come into play and threaten escalation to the strategic level.

Both sides at the SALT talks are acutely aware of all the possibilities, as they are aware, also, of the two times in recent years when the Russians and Americans edged close to the rim of nuclear calamity. Should China so complicate the picture that SALT fails, what then?

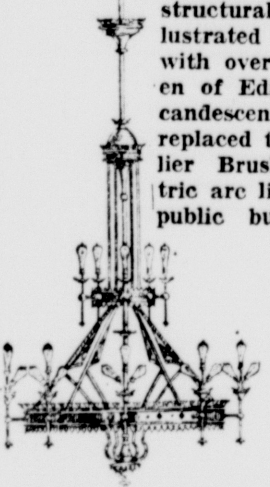

A Yugoslav commentator speculated recently that the "China factor" might in the long run "push the United States and the Soviet Union toward sanity."

GOOD OLD KEEPSAKES

by Clark Kinnaird

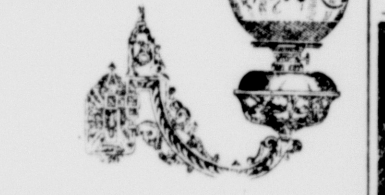

THE collector who has acquired relics from old family structures, or been a perceptive acquirer from junkshops, can be a spectacular exhibitor of devices that revolutionized illumination during the 1870's.

Chandeliers as structural as illustrated here, with over a dozen of Edison incandescent lamps, replaced the earlier Brush electric arc lights in public buildings.

After kerosene or "coal oil" was marketed in relatively safe, non-explosive forms, use of burners of whale oil and similar fuels petered out. But kerosene lamps had formidable rivals before electric lights.

Wall-bracketed kerosene burners like this and other types provided made reading easier for all.

Gas-lighting—artificial or natural—was better illumination than oil, but much of its potential was wasted in designs as spectacular, or ugly, as this representation of a mythical creature.

However, original oil and gas lamps can be electrified, as suggested above, for utility as the collector, with candle stands, rush lights, and lanterns for side effects.

Thumbing Not So Great

Pleasant weather helps bring out the wanderlust in people, as is easily noted by the increase in both foot traffic and motorized traffic along the highways. It also brings out the "thumb tripper" or hitchhiker in greater numbers.

People who travel by their wits and a raised thumb can give any number of reasons for doing so. It is inexpensive, a way of meeting new people, going places which otherwise might not be possible, and it has a tinge of excitement which appeals particularly to the young.

What they do not consider, or choose to ignore, is that hitchhiking carries its own special set of dangers, both to the hitchhiker and to the motorist who gives him a lift. When two strangers meet on the street and strike up a conversation, either can disengage when it suits him to do so.

That is not always possible in a moving automobile, and the results sometimes are tragic. A good rule for both the would-be hitchhiker and the motorist is to ask himself whether he is willing to place his safety in the hands of a stranger. Caution is still a better adviser than sorrow.

Determined To Join

Not everyone, it seems, is angry with the United States. A representative of the Mariana Islands has told the UN Trusteeship Council his people want U.S. commonwealth status and will fight if necessary to attain it.

The Congress of Micronesia, of which the Marianas are part, rejected commonwealth status. Whereupon the district legislature of the Marianas adopted a resolution favoring the link with the U.S.

To back up its intentions, the legislature also adopted a resolution saying the islands would secede from the trust territory "by force of arms if necessary, with or without" UN approval. The people of the Marianas obviously are upset over the direction the leaders of Micronesia are taking them.

As for expressing a willingness to fight for the right to become a U.S. possession, that is a stance so unusual in foreign affairs even the U.S. State Department has been caught with its mouth open.

Bank Stickups

Hardly a day passes without at least one U. S. bank holdup being noted in the news. A puzzling aspect is that the number continues to gain although a large percentage of perpetrators is apprehended within short time.

In one respect has the picture of bank holdups changed in the last 25 years.

Seldom are such crimes accompanied by slaying today, whereas in the past bloody carnage frequently was involved in the looting of a bank.

Perhaps the large number of women tellers now being employed contributes to this evolutionary trend.

The Business World

By STEPHEN H. WILDSTROM (For John Cuniff)

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. has begun an advertising campaign which asks the consumer whether he wants to pay the price of new safety devices being considered by the federal government.

"You pay a lot more for the seat belts and shoulder harnesses in your car," says the headline on the Ford ad which appeared last week in national magazines. "How much are you willing to pay?"

The ad is the latest move in a running battle between the industry, the government and various consumer groups over who speaks for the consumer and who is looking out for his interests.

"We are dealing in the 1970s, in my opinion, with a set of standards," said John Morrissey, director of advertising for Ford's marketing subsidiary. "We're dealing for the most part with younger, better educated, smarter people."

"We've learned from letters that people are reasonable and intelligent. We're trying to convey the idea that Ford Motor Co. is reasonable and intelligent, too."

He also indicated the ads may be of value in lining up support for Ford in its battles with government regulators over safety and exhaust emission standards.

General Motors Corp., and Chrysler Corp. spokesmen declined comment on the Ford ads, saying it would be improper for them to discuss their competitors' advertising.

Morrissey, however, predicted that other companies will switch to such ads. "I think this represents something you'll see a lot more of from now on out," he said.

THE OUTSTANDING new end of a top-ranking pro Western football team was reminiscing about the hardships he had endured in his childhood. "The neighborhood in which I was born," he recalled, "was so poor that when my old man threw our dog a bone, he signaled for a fair catch."

An elderly lady friend of Bob Sylvester thinks we are overpampering the young in scandalous fashion, and sinking them in a morass of advice and "helpful suggestions." "When I finished school," she recalls, "I went right to work in a shoe factory—and the only advice my mother gave me was never to kiss a shoe-maker with my eyes closed—as he would probably have a mouthful of nails." That reminds me of the warning Damon Runyon gave a young hick about to make his first visit to the big town. "If a gambler offers to bet you the jack of spades in a new deck can spit, prune juice in your eye," pontificated Runyon, "don't fall for his pitch—or you're very likely to wake up with a face full of prune juice!"

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Our 10-year-old daughter has recovered from rheumatic fever with a slight heart complication. I know it may sound ridiculous, but we are having long-range fears that our child may never be able to have children when she is married.

Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Wils. Dear Mr. and Mrs. C.:

Ten-year-old girls become 20-year-olds almost overnight. You are perfectly right in considering the problem now. By expressing your fears you will relieve yourself of many years of unnecessary anxiety.

A slight heart complication will undoubtedly be followed by your doctor who, I am certain, has assured you that your fears are exaggerated.

Many women who have even had relatively severe heart complications after rheumatic fever have been able to bear more than one child without any difficulty at all.

Modern methods of delivery and the ease and safety of anesthesia take a great deal of the burden off the heart during the delivery process.

I'll bet it's a boy!

What causes the tingling of my feet and muscle cramps, especially when I walk rapidly.

Mr. H. Z. Ida.

Dear Mr. Z.: Your combination of annoying symptoms suggests the possibility of some impairment of circulation, especially if there is any discoloration of the feet.

Tobacco, particularly in those who are sensitive to it, may be responsible for spasms of the blood vessels.

Varicose veins and a variety of other changes in the blood vessels should be ruled out by a thorough examination.

Tingling and cramps are the body's cries for attention. The basic reason may turn out to be very unimportant, but you do deserve the benefit of an examination.

At what age should a child with a cleft palate be treated?

Mrs. A.M.K., Maine

Dear Mrs. K.: Highly delicate operations have been devised for early surgery of cleft palate.

The choice for the ideal time depends on the judgment of the surgeon. More and more doctors try to perform this operation long before speech is interfered with.

This surgery in very young infants can, with present day anesthesia, be safely performed.

Sinatra Exits

By BOB THOMAS
AP Television-Movie Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — He stood with feet apart, head tilted, his throat quivering as he sang into a hand-held mike.

Frank Sinatra had performed in his unique style thousands of times in the past 30 years. This time it was different. He said it was his last performance.

Sunday night's glittering audience, including Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and Gov. Ronald Reagan understood the drama as Sinatra sang, "The record shows . . . I took the blows . . . and did it my way."

Sinatra, 55, was the last performer at an all-star Music Center gala that raised $800,000 for the Motion Picture and Television Relief Fund. He followed such stars as Bob Hope, Mitzi Gaynor, Jack Benny, Jimmy Durante, Cary Grant, James Stewart, Princess Grace of Monaco, the Fifth Dimension and Pearl Bailey with a "Hello, Dolly!" chorus that included Rock Hudson, Sammy Davis Jr., David Niven, Jack Lemmon and Don Rickles.

But it was Frank Sinatra's night.

He then drew a contrast between such a culture and the 12th century, which gave birth to the idea of romantic love. The point about romantic love as it emerged as a distinct novelty at the end of the Middle Ages is that it could be satisfied not by the generalized Woman or pornography, but only by one, distinct, particular woman. Love as it thus emerged in the modern West is connected with the uniqueness of the person; the pornographer is the enemy of the uniqueness of the person.

But how can pornography be controlled, he was asked. You don't advocate censorship, do you?

Legislature Report

MRYL SHOEMAKER
State Representative

The Ohio House approved 95-0 Tuesday a strong bill to outlaw deceptive selling practices against the buying public. The bill enacts a uniform consumer sales practices act proposed by the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform Sale Laws.

The measure lists 11-Acts for practices which are prohibited as being deceptive, including misrepresentations of quality, price advantage, need for repair, and others. The bill now goes to the State Senate.

The legislation specifically criticizes referral selling in which a buyer is told he will get a cost rebate if he provides other prospective buyers as a condition of getting the reduction.

The Ohio Attorney General is provided by new powers, including the power to subpoena merchants charged with deceptive practices.

The Attorney General also would be empowered to seek injunctions and $5000-a-day penalties for those violating an injunction against prohibited market practices.

This bill is a classic example of what can happen when both parties get together to help the public.

The Ohio House passed a bill Wednesday that would prohibit law enforcement officers, firemen, and members of the Armed Forces from wearing their uniforms while serving as witnesses or challengers at polling places. The measure would also prohibit any witness or challenger from carrying a deadly weapon.

Committee testimony indicated that the bill was prompted by recent incidents where uniformed law enforcement officers served as witnesses and challengers at polling places. There were also charges that the officers intimidated qualified voters and that they were afraid to enter the polling places.

The bill is intended to eliminate any air of concern at polling places due to the presence of men in uniform. The measure also is intended to prevent a conflict of interest where law enforcement officials serve in a private capacity as witnesses and challengers while seeming to serve in an official capacity because of the uniforms and weapons. Under current law, only candidates are prohibited from serving as witnesses or challengers unless the candidate is a member of a party controlling committee.

Governor John Gilligan announced here this week that he will submit legislation to the Ohio General Assembly next week that would place students and faculty members with full voting rights on the Boards of Trustees of every state supported college and university in Ohio.

Included in the legislation is a provision to give students, faculty members and college administrators almost 50 per cent representation on the Ohio Board of Regents — the policy making and long-range planning agency for higher education in the state.

Under the prospective legislative proposal, the Boards of Trustees would be increased from nine to 17 members, with four students and four faculty members on the board of each state, municipal and community college.

The students would be appointed by the governor, with consent of the State Senate, for one-year terms. Faculty members, two associate professors or above, and two below that rank, would serve two-year terms.

The board of regents also would be expanded from none to 17 members, with an addition of three students, three faculty members and the Presidents of one private and one public university.

The Governor would make the initial student and faculty appointments for one and two-year terms, respectively. He also would name the first two presidents to the board.

Pornography

By JEFFERY HART

San Diego — In talking with students, the main thing is to avoid stuffiness, which they can spot at a distance of 200 miles, and which, in their argot, turns them off. Yet if a case is valid, there is no reason it cannot be argued in a completely unstuff way, and put in terms that are congenial to the students' own values and feelings.

Take the pornography issue. The whole thing is loaded with temptations to be stuffy and moralistic, to seem priggish, or even to appear to be an enemy of freedom, the First Amendment, and all the rest of it. Yet while touring the campuses out here on the West Coast, I have heard the psychoanalyst Ernest van den Haag make the case against pornography in terms the students found attractive and persuasive.

The essence of pornography, he argued, is that it diminishes our sense that particular individuals are involved. It reduces the individuals to a specialized function, or generalizes them into Man and Woman. It also, he said, tears asunder emotion and act, which it has been the genius of Western culture at its best to fuse. He noted the complete acceptance of pornography at all social levels during classical antiquity, connected this with a lack of concern for the individual person, and pointed out that in such a culture you are not surprised to find men matched against lions in the Coliseum for the momentary gratification of the spectators.

He then drew a contrast between such a culture and the 12th century, which gave birth to the idea of romantic love. The point about romantic love as it emerged as a distinct novelty at the end of the Middle Ages is that it could be satisfied not by the generalized Woman or pornography, but only by one, distinct, particular woman. Love as it thus emerged in the modern West is connected with the uniqueness of the person; the pornographer is the enemy of the uniqueness of the person.

But how can pornography be controlled, he was asked. You don't advocate censorship, do you?

Van den Haag is a sociologist as well as a psychoanalyst, and he pointed out that any viable society is also a community of shared values. He thought that the fallacy of liberal rationalism is that it thinks of society in terms of "contract," individuals participating in the social whole only in limited and utilitarian ways, participating, psychologically, only for what they can get out of it. On the contrary, he said, any viable society rests on a body of shared assumptions — and one of the shared assumptions in the West has to do with the uniqueness of the person. This assumption, he pointed out, underlies our special horror at the spectacle of the Nazi boxcars and mass killings. And, he concluded, this society has the right, nay, the obligation, to protect those shared assumptions against the assault of the pornographer.

This presentation had a powerful impact. I do not suppose that 100 out of 100 students were instantly convinced and went home to demonstrate for anti-pornography legislation. But I am certain that not one student remained unaffected.

As for me, I think it is long past time for our legislators to begin to move in a tough way Newsweek.

Sinatra Exits

By BOB THOMAS

AP Television-Movie Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — He stood with feet apart, head tilted, his throat quivering as he sang into a hand-held mike. Frank Sinatra had performed in his unique style thousands of times in the past 30 years. This time it was different. He said it was his last performance.

Sunday night's glittering audience, including Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and Gov. Ronald Reagan understood the drama as Sinatra sang, "The record shows . . . I took the blows . . . and did it my way."

Sinatra, 55, was the last performer at an all-star Music Center gala that raised $800,000 for the Motion Picture and Television Relief Fund. He followed such stars as Bob Hope, Mitzi Gaynor, Jack Benny, Jimmy Durante, Cary Grant, James Stewart, Princess Grace of Monaco, the Fifth Dimension and Pearl Bailey with a "Hello, Dolly!" chorus that included Rock Hudson, Sammy Davis Jr., David Niven, Jack Lemmon and Don Rickles.

But it was Frank Sinatra's night.

Sinatra announced last April that he was retiring from show business to devote himself to teaching, writing and other activities.

The audience was aware of his resolve to retire after the performance. His choice of songs took on special significance: They seemed to be a review of his career and a summation of his philosophy.

He received three standing ovations during his half-hour performance. "This was the beginning," he remarked and launched into "All Or Nothing At All," his first hit record after leaving the Tommy Dorsey band to go on his own.

Other favorites included "I'll Never Smile Again," "Old Man River," "Try a Little Tenderness," "Fly Me to the Moon" and "My Way."

The final song was "Angel Eyes" which he sang on a darkened stage with only side spotlights illuminating his face. The final line: "Excuse me while I disappear." And he did.

Legislature Report

MRYL SHOEMAKER

State Representative

The Ohio House approved 95-0 Tuesday a strong bill to outlaw deceptive selling practices against the buying public. The bill enacts a uniform consumer sales practices act proposed by the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform Sale Laws.

The measure lists 11-Acts for practices which are prohibited as being deceptive, including misrepresentations of quality, price advantage, need for repair, and others. The bill now goes to the State Senate.

The legislation specifically criticizes referral selling in which a buyer is told he will get a cost rebate if he provides other prospective buyers as a condition of getting the reduction.

The Ohio Attorney General is provided by new powers, including the power to subpoena merchants charged with deceptive practices.

The Attorney General also would be empowered to seek injunctions and $5000-a-day penalties for those violating an injunction against prohibited market practices.

This bill is a classic example of what can happen when both parties get together to help the public.

The Ohio House passed a bill Wednesday that would prohibit law enforcement officers, firemen, and members of the Armed Forces from wearing their uniforms while serving as witnesses or challengers at polling places. The measure would also prohibit any witness or challenger from carrying a deadly weapon.

Committee testimony indicated that the bill was prompted by recent incidents where uniformed law enforcement officers served as witnesses and challengers at polling places. There were also charges that the officers intimidated qualified voters and that they were afraid to enter the polling places.

The bill is intended to eliminate any air of concern at polling places due to the presence of men in uniform. The measure also is intended to prevent a conflict of interest where law enforcement officials serve in a private capacity as witnesses and challengers while seeming to serve in an official capacity because of the uniforms and weapons. Under current law, only candidates are prohibited from serving as witnesses or challengers unless the candidate is a member of a party controlling committee.

Governor John W. Gilligan announced here this week that he will submit legislation to the Ohio General Assembly next week that would place students and faculty members with full voting rights on the Boards of Trustees of every state supported college and university in Ohio.

Included in the legislation is a provision to give students, faculty members and college administrators almost 50 per cent representation on the Ohio Board of Regents — the policy making and long-range planning agency for higher education in the state.

Under the prospective legislative proposal, the Boards of Trustees would be increased from nine to 17 members, with four students and four faculty members on the board of each state, municipal and community college.

The students would be appointed by the governor, with consent of the State Senate, for one-year terms. Faculty members, two associate professors or above, and two below that rank, would serve two-year terms.

The board of regents also would be expanded from nine to 17 members, with an addition of three students, three faculty members and the Presidents of one private and one public university.

The Governor would make the initial student and faculty appointments for one and two-year terms, respectively. He also would name the first two presidents to the board.

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. has begun an advertising campaign which asks the consumer whether he wants to pay the price of new safety devices being considered by the federal government.

"You pay a lot more for the seat belts and shoulder harnesses in your car," says the headline on the Ford ad which appeared last week in national magazines. "How much are you willing to pay?"

The ad is the latest move in a running battle between the industry, the government and various consumer groups over who speaks for the consumer and who is looking out for his interests.

Along with the rest of the auto industry, Ford is fighting tough 1975 exhaust standards and is also asking the federal courts to review the Department of Transportation standard requiring passive restraints to replace seatbelts for front-seat passengers in 1974 cars.

In the ad, Ford chides drivers for not using safety equipment now provided, saying the government would not even be considering devices such as air bags "if people would only use the belts and shoulder harnesses that are in their cars right now."

It goes on to list Ford's achievements in making cars safer and ends by asking readers to write the company with their views on the subject, also pointing out, "You are the voter."

The ad is the latest in a series of "informative advertisements" prepared for Ford by Grey Advertising of Detroit. Earlier newspaper and magazine ads dealt with issues such as product quality and value, but the latest was the first to deal directly with an ongoing political controversy.

Legend says Tincup, Colo., was so named because a miner once brought a sample of gold-bearing sands to an assayer in a tin cup.

Council Of Garden Clubs Holds Show And Meeting

BEST OF SHOW — Mrs. Charles Huston is shown with her Chrysler Imperial Rose which won Best of Show award for her at Council of Pickaway County Garden Club's recent show, in the specimen division.

CONSERVATION — Mrs. Donald H. Watt displays her entry in the conservation division of arrangements for which she was awarded Best of Show.

Council of Pickaway County Garden Clubs held its annual Spring Meeting and Flower Show recently at Scioto Chapel United Methodist Church in Robtown. Hosting the affair were members of Soliqua Garden Club of Ashville.

Mrs. Bernard Savey, president, presided during the business session. Mrs. W. E. Gibson, program chairman, introduced the morning speaker, Don Archer of the Conservation Department. He selected for his subject "Time Of Rebirth." He stressed the point that much is being taken out of the land and nothing put back in. He also pointed out that much good farm land is being lost to factories and highways which will never be regained.

Mrs. Gibson read Scripture and a meditation entitled "My Neighbor's Rose." Mrs. Charles Huston announced that Soliqua Garden Club will host the Flower Show at Ashville during the 4th of July celebration.

The afternoon session began with an auction of plants furnished by each club. Acting as auctioneer was Mrs. Harry Smith.

Mrs. Savey introduced Mrs. Vance Hendricks of Harrisburg, judge for the Flower Show and demonstrator. Mrs. Hendricks is a member of Harrisburg Garden Club and chairman of the Flower Show and Judges School in the region. She made several complimentary remarks about the show.

Her topic was "Flower Arranging Can Be Fun." Her arrangements included modern, mobile, assemblage and line mass.

Winning the Best of Show award for an arrangement was Mrs. Donald Watt with her entry entitled "Conservation." Mrs. Charles Huston was awarded Best of Show for a hybrid tea rose in the specimen division.

Arrangement class and winners were: Constitution — 1. Mrs. Joseph Veg; 2. Mrs. Hazel Neff; 3. Mrs. C. W. Hedges. Year Book — 1. Mrs. C. W. Hedges; 2. Mrs. Lawrence McKenzie; 3. Mrs. Corilla Pontius.

Women's Society of Christian Service of Salem United Methodist Church met Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. Helen Pontius, Route 1. Hostesses were Mrs. Hattie Hayslip and Mrs. Ruth Woolever.

The meeting was opened by Mrs. June McAfee using a patriotic theme. The hymn "God Of Our Fathers" and a unison reading entitled "Our Great Leader" were followed by Scripture reading by Mrs. McAfee.

The salute to the American flag and the singing of "America" was followed by a salute to the Christian flag and singing "America The Beautiful."

Mrs. Hayslip won the flower fund gift and birthday dues were paid by Mrs. McAfee and Mrs. Woolever.

Mrs. McAfee reported on the Portsmouth District Meeting which she, Mrs. Rose Minor, Mrs. Arlene Poling and Mrs. Rena Boldoser attended.

It was agreed to send $10 to the Southwest Indian School in Arizona. A discussion was held concerning a possible rummage sale.

Mrs. McAfee was requested to be chairman for the annual Fish Fry to be held July 29th at the church.

The new president of the society will be Mrs. Rose Minor with Mrs. Betty Kerns and Mrs. Arlene Poling as first and second vice presidents and Mrs. Pat Hildenbrand will be the new chairman of the nominating committee.

Games were conducted by Mrs. Relis Hildenbrand with prizes won by Mrs. Vera Miller, Mrs. Hattie Hayslip, Miss Kim Hayslip and Mrs. Mildred Maxwell.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses to 15 members and two guests, Mrs. Nona Hankins and Miss Kim Hayslip.

Circle Meets In Lape Home

Evening Circle of Women's Society of Christian Service of Calvary United Methodist Church met recently in the home of Mrs. Luella Lape, Route 3.

Mrs. Sara Dresbach, chairman, presided at the business meeting. Mrs. Harry Betz requested members to attend church while on vacation.

A card of thanks was received from Mrs. Charles Wellman and a letter from Lt. David A. Nardone thanking the society for the soap sent to him while he was stationed in Vietnam.

The do-it-yourself project begins this month and will continue until September.

Mrs. Harry Betz, presented the program "Risk And Reality In A World Of Cities." Several members took part in a simulated radio broadcast with Mrs. Betz as the announcer. A discussion period followed.

Refreshments were served to the 16 members and two guests present by the hostess and Mrs. Marion Delong.

ANNIVERSARY — Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Rittinger, Route 1, Williamsport, will celebrate their 25th Wedding Anniversary 7-10 p.m. Saturday with an open house at their home for family members and friends. Hostesses will be their daughters, Mrs. David Tait, and Donna and Deborah Rittinger. The couple was married June 19, 1946 by the Rev. Roy E. Wolford of Circleville.

Miss Lolelita E. Faulk Wed To Theodore Holdren

Marriage vows were exchanged Saturday, June 5 by Miss Lolelita Emeline Faulk and Mr. Theodore Lee Holdren at the Church of God in Laurelvile. The Rev. Lynn Summers officiated the double ring ceremony 8:30 p.m.

Miss Norma Stump presented a program of nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Howard Hartley, vocalist.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard E. Faulk Sr., Route 4, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Holdren Jr., Kingston.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected for her wedding a floor length gown of white satin and Chantilly lace. Lace formed the full length Juliet sleeves with deep cuffs. The boat neckline and empire waist were enhanced with tiny seed pearls. The buttoned down back was adorned with a huge lace bow at the waist. The illusion veil fell from a satin bow headpiece enhanced with roses of tiny seed pearls and satin petals, and the chapel length train was of satin and lace. The bride carried a bouquet of pink baby sweetheart roses surrounded by white baby mums with lilies of the valley.

Transport Study Receives Funds

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The State Emergency Board approved a $39,960 allocation to help study possible creation of a State Department of Transportation.

The State Highway Department is conducting the $330,000 study, paying most of the cost from gasoline tax revenues. But under state law the tax revenues may only be used to fund highway-related operations.

The portion of the study to be funded with the emergency appropriation will include public transit, aviation, waterways and other modes of transportation.

Mrs. Find It Locates Items Needed For Films

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Mary Crosby makes a living finding things — like a six-foot hamburger, or a six-inch Statue of Liberty, or people.

When trim, blonde Mrs. Crosby's pilot husband was killed in Vietnam she faced a decision: find work or stay home with her four children.

"As a Navy wife, I went through the society tea-drinking thing and found it fruitless," she says. "In business, I found a new interest, a new life. I think I went from a talker to a doer."

Mrs. Crosby, 36, answered an ad and got a job with a film production company. After two years, she says, "I looked for a vulnerable spot in the industry and jumped in."

The result is "Mary Crosby the Coordinator," the name of her firm. Her specialty is locating things, and people, needed by film production firms — mostly makers of commercials. It pays off, she says, at about $25,000 a year.

It took her three days, but she found a New England barn needed for a scene. It was in farm country north of here.

When Universal Pictures asked her for an up-to-date film of the San Diego skyline, including the new Coronado Bay Bridge, she dug around and found slides that filled the bill.

A plastic baby bottle shaped like a woman? No luck... so she had one made.

A hamburger chain wanted a six-foot flying hamburger for a commercial. She had one built of wood, then rigged it with wires so it would appear to soar. The same firm wanted a burger-eater to munch away as she sank slowly into cement. Mrs. Crosby found a contractor, who dug a hole and filled it with water and sawdust, after which a pulley slowly lowered the eater. She even found seven copies of his clown outfit to sub for those drenched during retakes.

For an auto firm, she provided the chickens that flew out of the trunk when a paunchy sheriff lifted the lid.

She has worked up a talent list of 800 local people ranging from month-old babies to a man of 92 to appear in still photos and films. For a Debbie Reynolds TV special she found 1,638 children, wardrobes, props permits and a location site.

San Diego is popular with makers of commercials and advertising stills because it is sunny, usually smog free, and is near beaches, mountains and Mexico. Hollywood is minutes away by plane.

Finding things often is easy, she says, because "when you ask anyone for help, they usually will."

"What was difficult," she says of her new life, "was getting out into the business world after 10 years as a housewife and never having worked a day in my life. I was scared out of my mind."

Now she believes her relationship with her children — ages 10 and 13 — is "better by or not being together all the time. They understand I'm a human being and I respect them as individuals. I loved being a housewife and I really dig my kids, but fate put me in an office for a very good reason. I needed it and it needed me."

Her next project? Writing a book. She already has title, "So What Now, Or How to Be a Widow."

The theme, she says, is that "a beginning follows every end."

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard E. Faulk Sr., Route 4, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Holdren Jr., Kingston.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected for her wedding a floor length gown of white satin and Chantilly lace. Lace formed the full length Juliet sleeves with deep cuffs. The boat neckline and empire waist were enhanced with tiny seed pearls. The bodiced down back was adorned with a huge lace bow at the waist. The illusion veil fell from a satin bow headpiece enhanced with roses of tiny seed pearls and satin petals, and the chapel length train was of satin and lace. The bride carried a bouquet of pink baby sweetheart roses surrounded by white baby mums with lilies of the valley attached to white satin streamers.

Matron of honor was the bride's sister, Mrs. Leatrice Chaffin. She wore a navy and white sleeveless dress with red, white and blue accessories and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. The Misses Linda and Glenda Tatman, bridesmaids, were attired in dresses of powder blue with white accessories and carried bouquets matching the honor attendant's.

Ring bearer was Master Kevin Randolph Faulk, brother of the bride. Mr. Steve Phillips performed the duties of best man.

Mrs. Faulk wore a light green dress with white accessories. Mrs. Holdren was attired in a light blue dress with white accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of pink carnations.

A reception followed the wedding at the home of Mrs. Leatrice and Tina Chaffin, 374 Eva Drive with Mrs. Chaffin and Mrs. Faulk as hostesses.

For her going away costume the bride chose a pale blue dress with pink and white embroidery and white accessories. The couple will reside in Kingston.

The new Mrs. Holdren is a 1970 graduate of Logan Elm High School and is employed at the Circleville General Electric Lamp Plant. Mr. Holdren is a 1971 graduate of Logan Elm High School and is engaged in farming at Kingston.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Steve Garrett, Elkhart, Ind., and Mrs. Bertha Faulk, Radcliff, grandmother of the bride.

Transport Study Receives Funds

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The State Emergency Board approved a $39,960 allocation to help study possible creation of a State Department of Transportation.

The State Highway Department is conducting the $330,000 study, paying most of the cost from gasoline tax revenues. But under state law the tax revenues may only be used to fund highway-related operations.

The portion of the study to be funded with the emergency appropriation will include public transit, aviation, waterways and other modes of transportation.

During the LSD state, the loss of control can cause panic reactions or feelings of grandeur. Both have led to injury or death when the panic or the paranoia was acted upon. The prolonged reactions consist of anxiety and depressive states, or psychotic breaks with reality which may last from a few days to years.

Mrs. Find It Locates Items Needed For Films

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Mary Crosby makes a living finding things — like a six-foot hamburger, or a six-inch Statue of Liberty, or people.

When trim, blonde Mrs. Crosby's pilot husband was killed in Vietnam she faced a decision: find work or stay home with her four children.

"As a Navy wife, I went through the society tea-drinking thing and found it fruitless," she says. "In business, I found a new interest, a new life. I think I went from a talker to a doer."

Mrs. Crosby, 36, answered an ad and got a job with a film production company. After two years, she says, "I looked for a vulnerable spot in the industry and jumped in."

The result is "Mary Crosby the Coordinator," the name of her firm. Her specialty is locating things, and people, needed by film production firms — mostly makers of commercials. It pays off, she says, at about $25,000 a year.

It took her three days, but she found a New England barn needed for a scene. It was in farm country north of here.

When Universal Pictures asked her for an up-to-date film of the San Diego skyline, including the new Coronado Bay Bridge, she dug around and found slides that filled the bill.

A plastic baby bottle shaped like a woman? No luck ... so she had one made.

A hamburger chain wanted a six-foot flying hamburger for a commercial. She had one built of wood, then rigged it with wires so it would appear to soar. The same firm wanted a burger-eater to munch away as she sank slowly into cement. Mrs. Crosby found a contractor, who dug a hole and filled it with water and sawdust, after which a pulley slowly lowered the eater. She even found seven copies of his clown outfit to sub for those drenched during retakes.

For an auto firm, she provided the chickens that flew out of the trunk when a paunchy sheriff lifted the lid.

She has worked up a talent list of 800 local people ranging from month-old babies to a man of 92 to appear in still photos and films. For a Debbie Reynolds TV special she found 1,638 children, wardrobes, props permits and a location site.

San Diego is popular with makers of commercials and advertising stills because it is sunny, usually smog free, and is near beaches, mountains and Mexico. Hollywood is minutes away by plane.

Finding things often is easy, she says, because "when you ask anyone for help, they usually will."

"What was difficult," she says of her new life, "was getting out into the business world after 10 years as a housewife and never having worked a day in my life. I was scared out of my mind."

Now she believes her relationship with her children — ages 10 and 13 — is "better by or not being together all the time. They understand I'm a human being and I respect them as individuals. I loved being a housewife and I really dig my kids, but fate put me in an office for a very good reason. I needed it and it needed me."

Her next project? Writing a book. She already has title, "So What Now, Or How to Be a Widow."

The theme, she says, is that "a beginning follows every end."

Medical Council Backs Welfare Hike

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Columbus area medical group has announced it favors increasing Ohio welfare payments under the Aid to Dependent Children and Medicaid programs.

The Council of the Academy of Medicine of Columbus and Franklin County announced Monday it had passed a resolution calling for increasing ADC payments to the state's minimum standard and extending Medicaid to those who are not on welfare but cannot afford medical care.

Store Chain Names Retiring MIT Prexy

CINCINNATI (AP) — Howard W. Johnson, retiring president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, has been named a vice chairman of Federated Department Stores.

Harold Krensky, 59, Federated group president, was also appointed as a vice chairman, Ralph Lazarus, Federated's chairman, announced Monday.

STARS FACE ABORTION ACTION — Two film stars, Senta Berger (left) and Romy Schneider, are among dozens of women facing legal action in West Germany for allegedly undergoing illegal abortions, according to the state prosecutor in Munich.

By CYNTHIA LOWERY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — So you are a woman and you are hooked on a couple of soap operas that fit into your daytime schedule when you are stuck in the house anyway. Chances are, you are young—under 50 anyway, that is, unless you live in the South where age is not a factor in soap opera addiction.

If your feminine preference is a daytime game show, you are likely to be older—and have a larger income than the average soap fan.

Enjoy the late night talk shows? If you are a typical Carson, Cavett or—to a lesser degree—Griffin fan, you are under 50, almost certainly over 18 and probably a woman. Johnny Carson, for instance, has 22 women staying awake for every 18 men. In all probability, you live in or near a big city; rural folk tend to turn in early.

These figures on who is tuned to what come from television's sophisticated rating services plus the statistical wizards employed by each network and advertising agency.

It is a logical preoccupation. Bill Rubens, NBC vice president in charge of audience measurement, explained that "the advertiser has to select, within the television schedules, the programs that he thinks will move his goods best."

Obviously, then, no manufacturer of disposable diapers is likely to insert his commercial in the middle of a program known to attract the very young or older audiences, such as "Family Affair." No dispenser of denture cleansers would be likely to invest in "Nanny and the Professor."

After years of research, television knows that we viewers are pretty much what we watch. There are some obvious deductions. More men than women watch sports—2½ times more men than women watch football. Golf is most devoutly observed by men with higher incomes. Saturday morning audiences are mostly composed of kids.

Viewing habits are charted like military maneuvers. It is devoutly believed, for instance, that television must be doing something right, despite its critics, since the audience is increasing faster than the birth rate and each year the number of hours the average set is on increases. It passed 6½ hours daily during the peak viewing season this year—October through April.

From the top of the season in midwinter to the depths in midsummer is a long drop—more than an hour a set, according to the averages. The dip certainly helps explain the remarkable lack of enthusiasm by broadcasters for bold experimentation in programming during the warm months.

Reach Agreement With Steel Division

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP) — The Empire District Steel Division and Local 2116 of the United Steelworkers of America have reached an agreement that would delay the possibility of a strike by the plant's 4,500 employees 30 days beyond the July 31 expiration of the current contract.

The agreement extends the contract through Aug. 30 to provide time to come up with a new, three-year pact.

Viet Pilots Flying More Air Sorties

WASHINGTON (AP) — The South Vietnamese air force apparently has assumed the main air combat role inside its own borders.

New Pentagon figures show VNAF pilots have been flying about twice as many sorties in South Vietnam in recent weeks as have U.S. pilots.

At the same time, the figures point up that U.S. planes are flying nearly all the combat missions in Laos and nearly 60 per cent of the strikes in Cambodia.

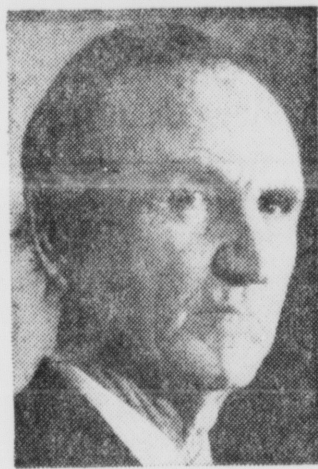

With U.S. ground troops ending their combat roles this summer, American Air Force officers have been preparing South Vietnamese air crews to take over their part of the battle.

Senior U. S. officers have forecast a self-sufficient South Vietnamese Air Force by next spring for operations inside South Vietnam.

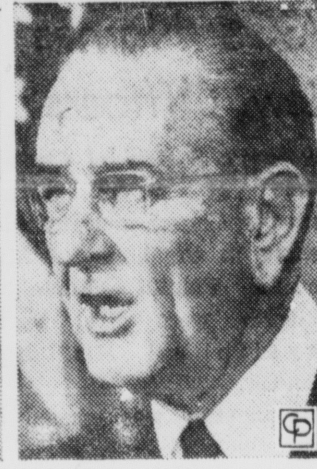

They expect U.S. bombers and gunships, operating mostly from carriers on bases in Thailand, to concentrate on the Ho Chi Minh Trail in Laos and in support of allied troops in Cambodia.

According to recent reports, South Vietnamese planes flew 2,625 attack sorties in South Vietnam in May against 1,360 for U.S. aircraft. In the first week of June, the VNAF flew about 660 sorties compared with 370 for U.S. Air Force and Navy aircraft. A sortie is a single flight by a single plane.

The Vietnamese air force topped all U.S. pilots in attack sorties for the first time in February, the reports show, but the difference was relatively small until May.

APARTNESS—Sen. Mike Mansfield is taking on a lot of weight in his efforts to force the Nixon administration into a 50 per cent reduction in U.S. troops in Europe. Two former presidents, Harry S. Truman and Lyndon B. Johnson, big Democrats, side with President Nixon that such a move would be unwise. Truman once said, during an Eisenhower presidential campaign, "Don't argue with the president on foreign policy. He knows a lot more than you do."

Times Prints War Study; Snubs Mitchell Request

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times says that despite the threat of injunction it "must respectfully decline" a Justice Department request to halt the publication of a secret Pentagon study of the Vietnam war.

Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell asked the newspaper in a telegram Monday evening to refrain from further publication of the documents on the grounds that it will cause "irreparable injury to the defense interests of the United States."

The telegram arrived about an hour after Robert C. Mardian, assistant attorney general in charge of the internal security division, conveyed the department request to Harding F. Bancroft, executive vice president of the Times.

Mardian said that if the Times did not accede "the government would seek to enforce all applicable statutes, including seeking an injunction to stop further publication," a Justice Department spokesman said.

The secret documents are part of a three-year-old, 40-volume study of how the United States became involved in the Indochina war. The third installment of the series appeared in today's editions of the Times.

Replying to Mitchell, the Times said in a statement that it "must respectfully decline the request of the attorney general, believing that it is in the interest of the people of this country to be informed of the material contained in this series of articles."

Regarding a possible injunction, the statement said, "We believe that is properly a matter for the courts to decide. The Times will oppose any request for an injunction for the same reason that led us to publish the articles in the first place.

"We will of course abide by the final decision of the court."

Earlier Monday Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird told a Senate committee that the publication of the documents "violates the security regulations of the United States."

The telegram from Mitchell, addressed to Arthur Ochs Sulzberger, president and publisher of the Times, said:

"I have been advised by the secretary of defense that the material published in the New York Times on June 13, 14, 1971, captioned 'Key Texts from Pentagon's Vietnam Study' contains information relating to the national defense of the

Viet Pullout Amendment Seems Headed For Defeat

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is going through the motions of debating legislation to force year-end U.S. withdrawal from South Vietnam, with one sponsor arguing that new disclosures about how the war was planned underscore the need for the pullout.

But there were few to speak and almost none to listen Monday as Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., and Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., argued the case for their cutoff amendment.

Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., said the legislation would completely disrupt President Nixon's "carefully worked-out plan for reducing U.S. involvement."

The outlook: two more days of talk, then a roll-call vote late Wednesday rejecting the amendment.

An Associated Press survey showed 53 senators firmly or probably against the amendment, 37 for it, the rest uncommitted.

Supporters gained the vote Monday of Sen. B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., who said most Americans "by using plain horse sense... have long since come to the conclusion that we have everything to lose and nothing to gain by continuing our military intervention in Southeast Asia."

McGovern, Stennis and Hatfield were principals Monday in a Senate debate that waned after three hours of off-and-on talk.

McGovern said Monday's

New York Times account of planning documents "certainly ought to underscore" the need for approval of the amendment and a greater congressional role in policymaking.

"What these documents tell is a story of almost incredible deception... by the highest officials in government..." he said.

Set New Trial In Liquor Case

CINCINNATI (AP) — The 6th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals has ruled that U. S. District Court Judge Mac Swinford was "clearly in error" when he dismissed a petition to halt criminal proceedings against two men arrested in a raid of the Johnston party boat, "Chaperon."

In a written opinion Monday that resulted from arguments on appeal Friday, the appellate court remanded the case back to U. S. District Court in Covington, Ky., where Judge Swinford ruled on the petition, ordering further proceedings consistent with its opinion.

The court also ordered Judge Swinford to issue immediately an injunction order against Kentucky officials from taking any further criminal proceedings in connection with the raid.

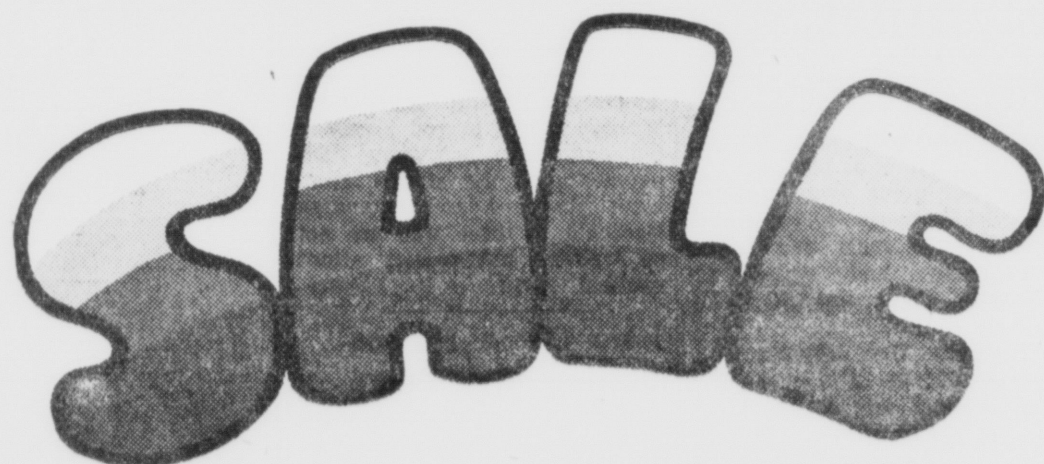

Arrested Dec. 13, 1969 in the raid were the owner of the "Chaperon," Frank H. Johnston, of Batavia, Ohio, charged with selling alcoholic beverages without a Kentucky license; and Charles C. Jones, of Cincinnati, the boat's alternate pilot, charged with obstructing justice.

First recognized transportation routes west were established in 1847 when the Mormons migrated to Utah.

Set New Trial In Liquor Case

CINCINNATI (AP) — The 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals has ruled that U. S. District Court Judge Mac Swinford was "clearly in error" when he dismissed a petition to halt criminal proceedings against two men arrested in a raid of the Johnston party boat, "Chaperon."

In a written opinion Monday that resulted from arguments on appeal Friday, the appellate court remanded the case back to U. S. District Court in Covington, Ky., where Judge Swinford ruled on the petition, ordering further proceedings consistent with its opinion.

The court also ordered Judge Swinford to issue immediately an injunctive order against Kentucky officials from taking any further criminal proceedings in connection with the raid.

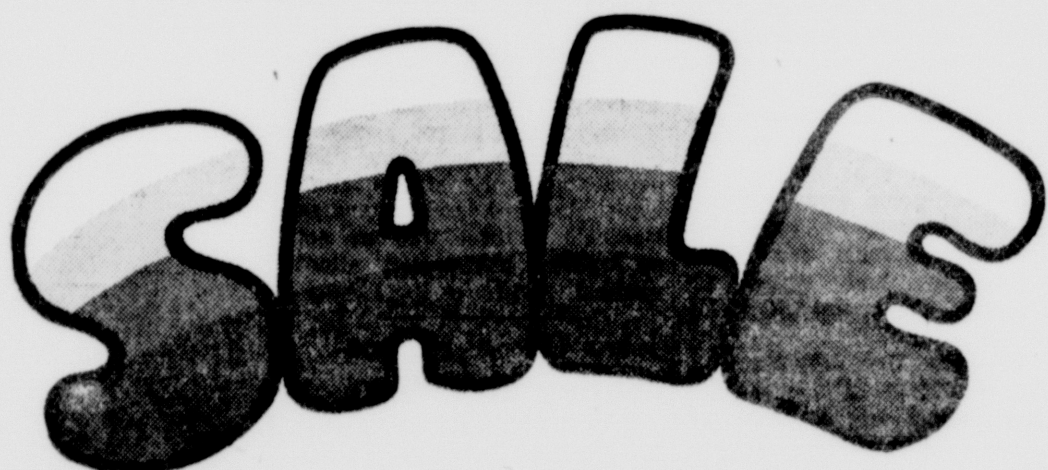

Arrested Dec. 13, 1969 in the raid were the owner of the "Chaperon," Frank H. Johnston, of Batavia, Ohio, charged with selling alcoholic beverages without a Kentucky license; and Charles C. Jones, of Cincinnati, the boat's alternate pilot, charged with obstructing justice.

First recognized transportation routes west were established in 1847 when the Mormons migrated to Utah.

Employee Of CCA For 43 Years Starts Retirement

BOB WILKINSON

Bob Wilkinson, 576 E. Main St., is retiring today after 43 years as power plant engineer of Container Corporation of America.

Although Sunday was his last working day at the plant, Wilkinson has six weeks vacation coming and his retirement becomes official Aug. 1. He went to work for Container Sept. 1, 1928. Only one other employee has more years of service at the plant.

During his 43 years at CCA he has seen many changes and outstanding events.

The 1929 fire sticks out in his mind as one of the worst of several fires. In those days the plant converted straw to paperboard and huge ricks were kept in the yards.

THAT fire saw 30 ricks of straw destroyed and water was hosed on the fire from November to January.

An engine explosion almost caused Wilkinson to give up his job. Prior to 1934 power was provided to the plant by Corliss slide valve steam engines and CCA boasted of having the second largest Corliss engine in the state. The flywheel of the giant engine was 30 feet in diameter and eight feet wide.

It went out of control and the runaway flywheel disintegrated. One piece as large as an automobile was never found and it was assumed it landed in the Scioto River, Wilkinson said.

During his retirement Wilkinson expects to devote more time to his hobbies, pitching horseshoes and fishing and camping.

He expects to spend a month in Canada this summer. It was there he landed the biggest fish he has ever caught, a 34-inch great northern Pike.

He also expects to pitch in various horseshoe tournaments during the summer, including the World's Senior Tournament.

HE has dominated the Class A division of the Pickaway county horseshoe tournament in recent years. He won the event in 1965, was runnerup in 1966 and then put together four consecutive championships from 1967 through 1970.

He was for seven years president of the Central Ohio Horseshoe League. He is a director of the Buckeye Horseshoe Assn. at the present time.

In 1966 he was a member of a Columbus team that won the Ohio State Championship. In 1964 he was a member of a team from Waverly that won the Central Ohio League Championship. He was runnerup state amateur champion in 1965. During the 45 years he has competed on the clay courts he has won nearly 60 trophies.

Wilkinson considers the most humiliating experience he has ever had on the horse shoe courts was being beaten by a women's team in league play one time.

Nixon Holds High-Level Drug Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon called key administration officials to the White House Monday along with seven U.S. ambassadors as part of a lengthy examination of drug abuse in American society.

Called to the meeting were the envoys to Mexico, Turkey, South Vietnam, Thailand, France, Luxembourg and the United Nations, plus Secretary of State William P. Rogers, Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and Treasury Secretary John B. Connally.

Ellsworth Bunker, U.S. ambassador to South Vietnam, told reporters at Andrews Air Force Base Sunday night the Saigon government is aware of reports that marijuana and hard drugs are increasingly available in South Vietnam, and is working on the problem.

Besides South Vietnam, the United States has urged the other countries to step up efforts to cope with the drug problem and the illicit traffic in narcotics and marijuana.

White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said today's meeting will be followed later this week by announcement of a government initiative to deal with the reported widespread use of drugs by Americans in Vietnam and the growth of a youth drug culture in the United States.

Last month, a congressional report said so many American soldiers in Vietnam are being hooked on heroin that President Nixon should withdraw all U.S. troops unless the drug traffic is halted.

The report, prepared for the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said many high-ranking Laotian, Thai and Vietnamese officials have a major hand in illegal drug sales to GIs. In some cases, it said, U.S. planes and diplomatic pouches are used to ferry opium and heroin

How The Weather Looks

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Following is the Ohio weather summary from the National Weather Service.

A stationary front lay across southern Ohio early today, with warm, humid air to the south and cooler air to the north.

Fog blanketed much of the state early today, mainly northern sections. Thundershowers were forecast in southern sections of the state this afternoon and evening.

Highs in the 70s and 80s are forecast today and Wednesday, except readings in the 60s are expected along Lake Erie. Lows tonight will dip to the upper 50s and 60s.

A few thundershowers dotted central and southern Ohio Monday with rainfall measuring from a trace at Dayton to 61-inch in Cincinnati.

FORECASTS

OHIO — Variable cloudiness through Wednesday with a chance of afternoon and evening thundershowers south. Highs in the 70s north and 80s south, except the upper 60s near Lake Erie. Lows tonight in the upper 50s north and 60s south.

NORTH WEST INLAND, NORTH EAST INLAND, WEST CENTRAL, CENTRAL, EAST CENTRAL — Partly cloudy through Wednesday. Highs in the upper 70s and lows 80s. Lows tonight in the upper 50s and low 60s.

SOUTHWEST, SOUTHEAST—Partly cloudy through Wednesday. Highs in the 80s. A chance of afternoon and evening thundershowers. Lows tonight in the 60s.

Stokes To Attend Washington Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cleveland Mayor Carl Stokes will attend a three-day conference in Washington next month for discussion of President Nixon's revenue sharing proposal.

The unusual gathering, sponsored by the National Tax Association and the Fund for Public Policy Research, will be attended by key figures both for and against the proposal.

Thundershowers Linger Across U.S. Midsection

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Clear and mild weather prevailed over most of the nation today but thundershowers lingered from the Plains to the Mid and South Atlantic Coast.

A tornado was sighted near Imperial, Tex., and funnel clouds were reported near

Charleston, S.C., and Dickinson, N.D., during the night.

Hail pelted San Angelo, Tex., while marble-size hail piled to a depth of 4 inches at Eads, Colo. High winds caused some damage near Bristol, Tenn., and Athens, Ga. Nearly an inch of rain doused Hickory, N.C.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 35 at Houlton, Maine, to 19 at Needles, Calif.

One of Britain's most famous steam locomotives was "The Duchess of Sutherland." She had traveled 1,644,271 miles when retired in 1964.

Although Sunday was his last working day at the plant, Wilkinson has six weeks vacation coming and his retirement becomes official Aug. 1. He went to work for Container Sept. 1, 1928. Only one other employee has more years of service at the plant.

During his 43 years at CCA he has seen many changes and outstanding events.

The 1929 fire sticks out in his mind as one of the worst of several fires. In those days the plant converted straw to paperboard and huge ricks were kept in the yards.

THAT fire saw 30 ricks of straw destroyed and water was hosed on the fire from November to January.

An engine explosion almost caused Wilkinson to give up his job. Prior to 1934 power was provided to the plant by Corliss slide valve steam engines and CCA boasted of having the second largest Corliss engine in the state. The flywheel of the giant engine was 30 feet in diameter and eight feet wide.

It went out of control and the runaway flywheel disintegrated. One piece as large as an automobile was never found and it was assumed it landed in the Scioto River, Wilkinson said.

During his retirement Wilkinson expects to devote more time to his hobbies, pitching horseshoes and fishing and camping.

He expects to spend a month in Canada this summer. It was there he landed the biggest fish he has ever caught, a 34-inch great northern Pike.

He also expects to pitch in various horseshoe tournaments during the summer, including the World's Senior Tournament.

HE has dominated the Class A division of the Pickaway county horseshoe tournament in recent years. He won the event in 1965, was runnerup in 1966 and then put together four consecutive championships from 1967 through 1970.

He was for seven years president of the Central Ohio Horseshoe League. He is a director of the Buckeye Horseshoe Assn. at the present time.

In 1966 he was a member of a Columbus team that won the Ohio State Championship. In 1964 he was a member of a team from Waverly that won the Central Ohio League Championship. He was runnerup state amateur champion in 1965. During the 45 years he has competed on the clay courts he has won nearly 60 trophies.

Wilkinson considers the most humiliating experience he has ever had on the horse shoe courts was being beaten by a women's team in league play one time.

Nixon Holds High-Level Drug Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon called key administration officials to the White House Monday along with seven U.S. ambassadors as part of a lengthy examination of drug abuse in American society.

Called to the meeting were the envoys to Mexico, Turkey, South Vietnam, Thailand, France, Luxembourg and the United Nations, plus Secretary of State William P. Rogers, Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and Treasury Secretary John B. Connally.

Ellsworth Bunker, U.S. ambassador to South Vietnam, told reporters at Andrews Air Force Base Sunday night the Saigon government is aware of reports that marijuana and hard drugs are increasingly available in South Vietnam, and is working on the problem.

Besides South Vietnam, the United States has urged the other countries to step up efforts to cope with the drug problem and the illicit traffic in narcotics and marijuana.

White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said today's meeting will be followed later this week by announcement of a government initiative to deal with the reported widespread use of drugs by Americans in Vietnam and the growth of a youth drug culture in the United States.

Last month, a congressional report said so many American soldiers in Vietnam are being hooked on heroin that President Nixon should withdraw all U.S. troops unless the drug traffic is halted.

The report, prepared for the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said many high-ranking Laotian, Thai and Vietnamese officials have a major hand in illegal drug sales to GIs. In some cases, it said, U.S. planes and diplomatic pouches are used to ferry opium and heroin

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Clear and mild weather prevailed over most of the nation today but thundershowers lingered from the Plains to the Mid and South Atlantic Coast.

Charleston, S.C., and Dickinson, N. D., during the night.

Hail pelted San Angelo, Tex., while marble-size hail piled to a depth of 4 inches at Eads, Colo. High winds caused some damage near Bristol, Tenn., and Athens, Ga. Nearly an inch of rain doused Hickory, N.C.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 35 at Houlton, Maine, to 19 at Needles, Calif.

One of Britain's most famous steam locomotives was "The Duchess of Sutherland." She had traveled 1,644,271 miles when retired in 1964.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Retired Mama Wants Her Own Place

DEAR ABBY: The mother of a friend of mine is a lovely lady of 85. She is sweet, gentle, alert and is not ailing physically.

She takes turns living with her children who love her dearly, but she is very unhappy. She feels that she is "in the way," but whenever she mentions going to a retirement home, her children insist that elderly parents belong with their families, not in "institutions with strangers."

The little lady appreciates everything her children do for her but she says she would like a place of her own, however tiny. She wants to feel "independent." Her children are well-to-do and could afford to keep her in a very nice retirement home, but they refuse to consider it. Will you please comment, Abby? The elderly lady says her children read your column.

AN ADMIRER

DEAR ADMIRER: Aging parents who are in good health and sound mind "belong" where they want to be, if they have a choice. The children may be well-intentioned, but they are selfish. (They also may prefer to keep Mamma at home because they fear their friends will say, "they put the poor old soul in a home to get rid of her.") I hope the children reconsider.

DEAR ABBY: This is in reply to "FAT FANNY," who complained about chairs in restaurants being too small. I am also fat and have been for several years. Instead of complaining about the chairs being too small for big me, I am now trying to make myself fit onto chairs. After being a glutton, it suddenly struck me that there was more to life than food. Without the help of one diet pill, I lost 28 pounds in 10 weeks.

Fat people always have an excuse for overeating. They're lonely, unloved, depressed, etc.

Well, I'm divorced and have two children whose father refuses to support them. I live on welfare, have no job and my future looks bleak, but I am determined to make it a bright, skinny future.

"Fat Fanny" should shape up and slim down, and quit complaining about restaurant chairs that are made for the average person, not elephants. If I can do it, she can do it.

73 POUNDS TO GO
DEAR "73": Good for you! I want to hear from you 73 pounds from now. I have a hunch you'll make it.

DEAR ABBY: I am a shoplifter. I started out as a teenager. I always took small things and got away with it. I kept telling myself it would be the last time, but I just couldn't stop. I prayed to God to help me stop and I thought I had because I didn't take anything for over a year, then tonight it happened again. I just had to take something, and just as I was walking out of the store they came after me. They caught me with less than a dollar's worth, but I ended up paying a $40 fine plus the hurt to my family, myself and mostly to God.

I have promised God and myself that I will never again steal as much as one bobby pin, and I think now I can keep that promise.

This letter is for everyone who thinks it is not so bad to shoplift an item or two. Never Start! It can get to be a habit, or a game, and it's hard to stop. Please correct my mistakes in spelling, Abby, but print this. It may help me.

Flags Fly Over Capitol To Satisfy Constituents

WASHINGTON (AP) — For a large part of nearly every working day one American flag after another is run up a pole over the U.S. Capitol, allowed to flutter for a second or two then lowered.

There is no special occasion being marked. The activity, which takes up several hours, is to satisfy requests to members of Congress by the folks back home for flags that have flown over the venerable building.

According to Philip Roof, executive assistant to the Capitol architect, the demand is so great each flag is limited to a quick up-and-down.

Some days hundreds of flags are flown. Roof said, with the total last year reaching a record 31,700.

There were 23,700 flown in 1969 and 21,000 in 1968. From 1937 through 1970, 226,568 flags were flown.

Through May this year, 11,185

flags were flown.

The largest number of flags flown in a single day was on July 4 1960, when more than 5,000 were flown. This was after Hawaii and Alaska became states and the 50-star flag became official.

Flags for constituents are not flown in rain nor snow nor when Capitol flags are at half-staff.

Constituents writing for flags must send checks for payment. The flag is purchased from a Capitol stationary shop and sent to the architect's office. Constituents may ask for 3-by-5 or 5-by-8 foot flags. The 3-by-5 flag costs $3.39, the 5-by-8 $6.22.

After it is flown, the flag and a letter signed by Architect of

High Court Decides Cities May Shut Down Swim Pools

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled 5 to 4 today that cities faced with integration orders may close down swimming pools and other public facilities, denying their use to both blacks and whites.

Turning down a plea by a group of Jackson, Miss., Negroes, the court said there is no illegal discrimination when neither blacks nor whites have the use of public facilities. All the Constitution requires, said Justice Hugo L. Black, is that the states do not promote separation of the races.

The pools ruling marks another turning point in Supreme Court rulings. It was a rare defeat for civil rights forces after years of almost uninterrupted victory in the high court.

The decision was forged by an alignment with Black of the two Nixon administration appointments, Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justice Harry A. Blackmun, and two conservative holdovers, John M. Harlan and Potter Stewart.

In dissent were Justices William O. Douglas, William J. Brennan Jr., Byron R. White and Thurgood Marshall.

Black, speaking for the majority, said, "Neither the 14th Amendment or any act of Congress purports to impose an affirmative duty on a state to begin to operate or to continue to operate swimming pools. Furthermore, this is not a case where whites are permitted to use public facilities while blacks are denied access."

Black added: "It is not a case where a city is maintaining different sets of facilities for blacks and whites and forcing the races to remain separate in recreational or educational activities."

Carbon Absorbs Pond Lick Poison

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP) — Federal officials said Monday activated carbon dumped into Pond Lick Reservoir was absorbing poison thrown in the lake and a channel to divert Turkey Creek around the reservoir would not be needed.

The officials were still worried that a heavy rainfall might spill some of the poisoned water over the dam into the creek before the carbon had a chance to absorb all the poison.

Gary Hiles, 24, of Portsmouth, is scheduled to appear in municipal court Thursday on charges of dumping a gallon of strychnine-soaked corn and a toxic pesticide into the lake.

Pilot Power Plant To Take Pollution Out Of Coal

By GROVER BRINKMAN
Central Press Association
Correspondent

CHICAGO, Ill. — In 1673 explorers Marquette and Joliet noted "charbon de terra" near the Illinois River south of here; a few years later, Father Louis Hennepin, chaplain of La Salle's expedition, published a crude map of the area showing "a coal mine."

That explorer's map really started something.

For the next 300 years, coal has been burned in stoves, furnaces, domestically and industrially, over most of the world. It belched black smoke from stacks large and small, and no one gave it much heed, viewing the air pollution as a necessary evil.

More and more smoke is pouring from bigger and bigger stacks today, but now the pollution factor is viewed with alarm, and rightly so. The alarmists view the belching stacks as doomsday for man, but the opportunists see in it merely another technological problem to be conquered. And they are fast conquering it.

Much maligned coal, headlined as an air polluter, might soon get an entirely new image if a pilot plant now being built near Chicago is successful. The plant is being developed by the Illinois Institute of Technology at a cost of $7 million. Coal will be turned into clean-burning gas here; sulfur, a major source of air pollution, is to be recovered in a solid elemental form.

Not only are they going to take the pollution out of the coal (sulfur dioxide) but they're going to market the "pollution."

If this pilot plant is successful (and its builders say it will be), a path may be found out of the dilemma of an abundance of coal and a shortage of clean air.

Quoting no less an authority than the Encyclopedia Britannica, all industrial nations must have coal, other fuels notwithstanding. There is no reasonable substitute. So a plan must be found to burn it without further polluting our already highly-smogged atmosphere.

The American continent still has more than two trillion tons of coal underground, most of it mineable in one way or another. With the U.S. coal production running 555 million tons annually, this would make our coal supply last until the year 5573.

Coincidentally, that would be the 390th anniversary of the discovery of coal near what is now the Illinois city of Utica.

The experimental plant, converting coal into gas, is expected to get into full operation this spring. National commercial operation is slated for 1977 or earlier.

Illinois long has been among the leading coal states in the nation. Last month mines in 21 Illinois counties produced 5,654,579 tons of coal, and increase of 128,507 tons from the year before. That means the stacks are belching more pollution than ever before, for most Illinois coal has a high sulfur content. Necessity has always been the mother of invention, and in the matter of air pollution from burning coal, the matter has been brought into very sharp focus.

Nationally, coal already is heavily used by a power supplier and one-time competitor — electricity, a fact that has produced a unique situation.

As more people switched from coal to electricity, the demand for coal by the giant electric utilities took a steep rise. Overall consumption since 1967 among these coal burners has risen 15 per cent. Commonwealth Edison, at Chicago, one of the country's largest, burns 18 million tons of coal annually, twice as much as it did 20 years ago. The pattern is much the same, all over the nation. New power generating plants are being built to provide electricity for an ever-expanding market. The plants are mostly steam turbine operations that burn tremendous amounts of coal to fire their boilers. The stacks have been belching more and more smoke.

But now the scene is changing, because of necessity — human life itself. Converting coal into a gas that burns clean seems to be an answer. Only time will tell.

Nixon Policy On Housing Is Attacked

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A proposed resolution criticizing President Nixon's new open-housing policy has stirred the concern of some mayors and federal officials attending the 38th annual meeting of the U.S. Conference of Mayors.

The proposed resolution, already approved by the conference's resolutions committee, also seeks a cutoff of all federal funds to communities which exclude low and moderate-income housing.

Housing and Urban Development Secretary George Romney appealed Monday in a speech before the 400 mayors attending the conference for revision of the resolution, which calls Nixon's policy a denial of equal opportunity.

The resolution comes up for a vote before the full conference Wednesday.

Romney's appeal moved proponents of the resolution to reconsider its wording.

Mayor Herman W. Goldner, a Republican from St. Petersburg, Fla., began seeking co-sponsors for an amendment to delete three sections of the resolution.

The sections, proposed initially by Mayor Lee Alexander, Democrat of Syracuse, N.Y., said: "President Nixon's policy on equal housing opportunities... amounts in effect to a denial of such opportunities..."

"The U.S. Conference of Mayors strongly objects to the position of President Nixon that the federal government should not promote the development of low and moderate income housing in all communities..."

"The federal government should advise all communities that the future availability of all federal funds depends upon the applicant community's commitment to provide low and moderate-income housing opportunities and that to refuse to cooperate in this regard will serve to terminate all federal assistance..."

5 More Ohioans Die In Indochina

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five Ohioans were listed by the Defense Department Monday as having died in the Vietnam War. Killed in action were 1st Lt. William Taylor and Spec. 4 Hiawatha Williams, both of Dayton, and Sgt. Carl Brewster of Arlington.

Listed as dead of non-hostile causes were Spec. 5 John Mickle of Washington Court House and Spec. 4 William Lamers of Spencerville.

Scioto Society Given State Aid Bid For Project

The Scioto Society, Inc. this week received a commitment from Director William B. Nye, Ohio Department of Natural Resources, that he will recommend money for the development of the Sugarloaf Mountain Amphitheatre be included in the Capital Improvements Bill to be submitted to Governor Gilligan in the near future.

Director Nye said he thought the amount of $200,000 proposed by W. L. Mundell, Executive Vice President of the Society was "within reason." In the recent past the State has granted $400,000 to The Ohio Outdoor Historical Drama Association for the production of their drama, "Trumpet In The Land," which premiered last season.

The Scioto Society, Inc. is currently in the process of developing an epic historical drama about the Shawnee War Chief, Tecumseh, and the opening of the Northwest Territory which Tecumseh opposed so staunchly. Toward this end, the Society has optioned land for an amphitheatre on the slopes of Sugarloaf Mountain, one of the pinnacles appearing on The Great Seal of the State of Ohio. Allan W. Eckert, renowned author and four-time nominee for The Pulitzer Prize, has been commissioned to write the drama. Dittmar and Stubbs, architects from Zanesville, have been contracted to design the amphitheatre.

In a meeting with W. L. Mundell and Robert Badgley of The Scioto Society, Director Nye said that his Department was "favorably inclined toward the work of the Society." He went on to credit Representative Myrl Shoemaker and Mr. Robert Badgley with doing a fine job of championing the cause of The Scioto Society.

The development of the drama on the northern segment of the State Seal Ridge is part of an overall plan which includes the possibility of establishing a State Seal Park on Mount Logan, the southernmost portion of the Great State Seal. Bringing such a park into reality has long been a goal of Representative Shoemaker.

The funds recommended by Director Nye will supplement monies now being raised through the Scioto Society Development Fund now underway in Pike, Pickaway and Ross counties. The Development Fund has reached a total of $65,000 toward its minimum goal of $250,000.

Court Suspends Youth's License

Eighteen-year-old Peter Williams, Ashville, was fined $10 Friday in Juvenile Court for speeding 70 in a 60 mile zone. His license was also suspended for 30 days.

Other juvenile court cases included one involving a Circleville boy, 17, who was ruled incorrigible and unruly. The charges were filed by the youth probation officer, Millard Dern, on the basis that the boy was unable to be reformed either in his home or at school. Judge Guy Cline sent the boy to the Ohio Youth Commission on a temporary basis.

Two teenagers were found guilty of school truancy in court. A boy, 15, was ordered to spend five days in detention, complete 150 hours of community work and had his probation continued for skipping school and violating the terms of his probation.

A girl, 14, was placed on probation for three years for being truant from school. Both youths were from Circleville.

FBI Hunts 2 Fugitives

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP)—The search for two Tennessee prison escapees and a Wood County man believed to be their hostage shifted to Michigan early today.

A truck driver on Interstate 75 reported stopping beside a car matching the description of the vehicle believed being driven by the escapees about 4:30 a.m. near Taylor, Mich.

The trucker said a man armed with a gun ordered him to leave.

The car was spotted again about an hour later on I-75 near Pontiac, Mich. Detroit Twp. police gave chase, but the car escaped.

Monday the FBI entered the search after the pair apparently traded a prison foreman, whom they had taken hostage when they escaped, for John Edward Rose, 27, of Wood County.

Rose and his 1969 red and white Dodge Dart have been missing since early Monday.

The prisoners, identified as James Byrd, 27, of Dayton, Tenn., and John W. Vest, 22, of Carroll County, Tenn., left the Brushy Mountain State Prison at Petros, Tenn. They took Prison Foreman Hershel Jones and his pickup truck with them.

Jones was abandoned near Bowling Green, where he called police about 10 hours after the escape. It was thought the prisoners were headed for either Cleveland or Battle Creek, Mich., where they have relatives.

Byrd was serving five years for forgery and Vest was doing five to 15 years for an attempted holdup with a blank pistol. Neither man is considered dangerous, authorities said.

Says Opportunity Reduces Welfare

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Welfare Director John Hansan told the Senate Finance Committee Monday that welfare rolls could be reduced by providing jobs for everyone who wants to work and setting up day care centers for mothers who wanted jobs.

In testimony on the general appropriations budget for the upcoming biennium, Hansan said that "larger and larger numbers of persons in our state have no other alternative than public welfare. Given an opportunity for something different they would not go on welfare."

Hansan said the welfare budget fluctuates with the economy and he did not expect things would get better in the near future. He said welfare rolls are likely to continue increasing as laid off employees exhaust their unemployment benefits.

Pilot Power Plant To Take Pollution Out Of Coal

By GROVER BRINKMAN
Correspondent

CHICAGO, Ill. — In 1673 explorers Marquette and Joliet noted "charbon de terre" near the Illinois River south of here; a few years later, Father Louis Hennepin, chaplain of La Salle's expedition, published a crude map of the area showing "a coal mine."

That explorer's map really started something.

For the next 300 years, coal has been burned in stoves, furnaces, domestically and industrially, over most of the world. It belched black smoke from stacks large and small, and no one gave it much heed, viewing the air pollution as a necessary evil.

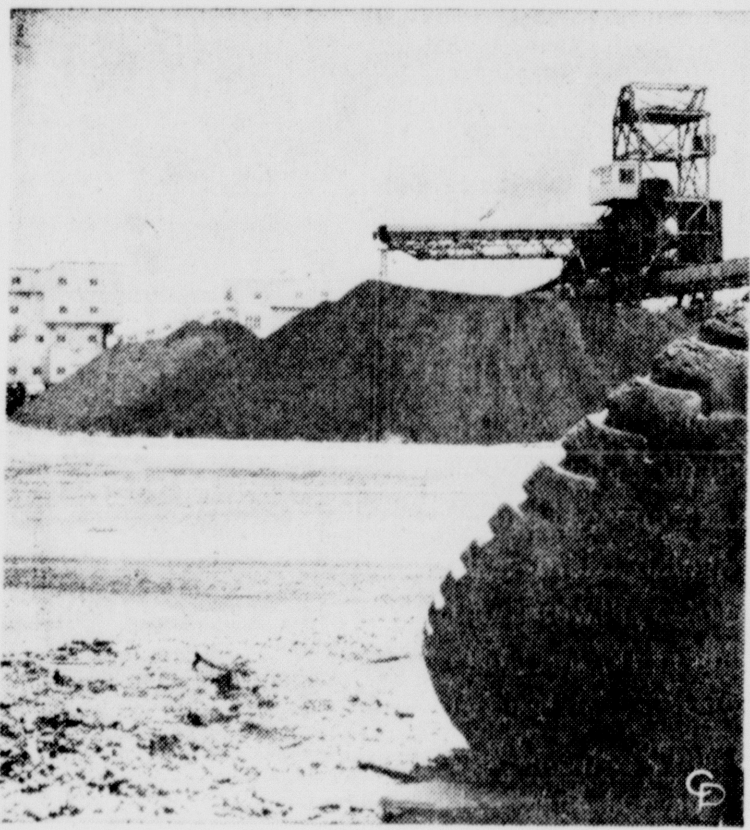

More and more smoke is pouring from bigger and bigger stacks today, but now the pollution factor is viewed with alarm, and rightly so. The alarmists view the belching stacks as doomsday for man, but the opportunists see in it merely another technological problem to be conquered. And they are fast conquering it.

Much maligned coal, headlined as an air polluter, might soon get an entirely new image if a pilot plant now being built near Chicago is successful. The plant is being developed by the Illinois Institute of Technology at a cost of $7 million. Coal will be turned into clean-burning gas here; sulfur, a major source of air pollution, is to be recovered in a solid elemental form.

Not only are they going to take the pollution out of the coal (sulfur dioxide) but they're going to market the "pollution." If this pilot plant is successful (and its builders say it will be), a path may be found out of the dilemma of an abundance of coal and a shortage of clean air.

Quoting no less an authority than the Encyclopedia Britannica, all industrial nations must have coal, other fuels notwithstanding. There is no reasonable substitute. So a plan must be found to burn it without further polluting our already highly-smogged atmosphere.

The American continent still has more than two trillion tons of coal underground, most of it mineable in one way or another. With the U.S. coal production running 555 million tons annually, this would make our coal supply last until the year 5573.

Coincidentally, that would be the 390th anniversary of the discovery of coal near what is now the Illinois city of Utica.

The experimental plant, converting coal into gas, is expected to get into full operation this spring. National commercial operation is slated for 1977 or earlier.

Illinois long has been among the leading coal states in the nation. Last month mines in 21 Illinois counties produced 5,634,579 tons of coal, and increase of 128,507 tons from the year before. That means the stacks are belching more pollution than ever before, for most Illinois coal has a high sulfur content. Necessity has always been the mother of invention, and in the matter of air pollution from burning coal, the matter has been brought in to very sharp focus.

Nationally, coal already is heavily used by a power supplier and one-time competitor — electricity, a fact that has produced a unique situation.

As more people switched from coal to electricity, the demand for coal by the giant electric utilities took a steep rise. Overall consumption since 1967 among these coal burners has

Player Sees U.S. Open Real Challenge

ARDMORE, Pa. (AP) — South African Gary Player takes a cautious approach to the United States Open Golf championship.

"You don't want to be too cocky going into something like this," the muscular little rancher from Johannesburg said Monday before his first practice round over the historic Marion Golf Club course.

"I am playing very well right now," said 34-year-old physical fitness addict added, then couldn't suppress a smile that crept across his handsome face.

And it's a story that makes the diminutive superstar with the powerful, sloping shoulders one of the prime candidates for the title in the most prestigious of all the world's golf tournaments, a 72-hole test that begins Thursday.

Player, one of only four men ever to sweep all four of the world's major professional titles, is enjoying one of his best years on the American circuit.

He scored consecutive victories in the Jacksonville and National Airlines Opens, was second in the Tournament of Champions, missed a tie for first in the Atlanta Classic by a single stroke, was fourth in the PGA national championship, sixth in the Masters and lost in a playoff last weekend for the Kemper Open title.

His winnings of more than $118,000 is the second best he's had in 15 years on the tour and has him closing in on fourth place on the all-time list. His stroke average is a remarkable 70.6.

Coke Defeats Hawks, 6-1

Coca Cola won over the Herald Hawks, 6-1, in Monday's major league action.

Biff Bumgarner was the winning pitcher, allowing three hits, striking out 15 and walking only one.

Scott Barthelmas smacked two singles for the winning team.

Lloyd Cline was the losing pitcher, striking out four, walking two and allowing eight hits.

Bryon Edgington hit a homerun and Dennis Williams stroked two singles.

Coca Cola is now 2-0 in league play.

Beige Turf On The Way To Gridiron?

MIAMI (AP) — Don't wager that pro football's Super Bowl won't someday be played on a field of fleshy beige rather than today's grassy green.

Budget-priced thoroughbreds are pounding around an artificial track during Florida's sizzling summer in an experiment that could one day cool the soles of Joe Namath and Deacon Jones.

"Maybe it's the light color," said Elmer Vickers, general manager at the new Calder Race Course, "but heat hasn't been a factor."

He's right. Not a single horse has complained, although some owners are irked about apparent sore shoulders among their animals.

Calder is a $20 million racing plant that stacks customers high rather than wide and keeps even losers cool. The entire 11-story grandstand is air conditioned and not a seat is farther than 110 feet from the finish line.

Air-cooled fans watch from behind a 110-foot wall of glass as the horses stomp around what 3M company calls its "third generation artificial track."

Complainers have asked for a layer of sand to help cushion the Saf-T-Turf, already a softer version of the bogus track used at several other race emporiums around the country.

Heavy rains the last week have allowed the horses to pass the wet test with few problems of slipping.

Bruised Giants Bow To Philadelphia, 9-4

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON Associated Press Sports Writer

Monday being Flag Day, the San Francisco Giants continued to waver.

The beleaguered Giants, still unable to shake the June bugs, lost for the 10th time in 13 games this month, bowing to Philadelphia 9-4.

Combined with Los Angeles' 3-2 victory over the New York Mets, it pared the Giants' lead in the National League West to five games. It stood at 10½ on June 1.

Elsewhere, Houston nipped Pittsburgh 5-4, Cincinnati whipped St. Louis 7-2, the Chicago Cubs edged Atlanta 3-2 and San Diego shaded Montreal 2-1.

The day started out badly for the Giants with the announcement that slugger Willie McCovey will have his ailing knees re-examined when the team returns home Thursday and may need an operation. It didn't take long for things to get worse.

Utilityman Frank Johnson was struck in the face by a ball during infield practice and was unconscious for at least 10 minutes. X-rays were negative but Johnson was said to be suffering from "ataxia to the right," which means he veers to the right when he walks.

The Phillies then gave Gaylord Perry a severe case of ataxia to the shoulders, Willie Montanez started it with a first inning homer and the Phils exploded for six runs in the second.

GE outslugged Du Pont 7-3 in Monday night's Babe Ruth game for their second consecutive victory.

Doug Marshall was the winning pitcher allowing five hits, walking three, and fanning 12 at the plate.

Hitting for GE was Gary Mogan, Marshall and Taylor with two hits each.

Francis and Truex each hit twice for the losing team.

Roger Freed singled in the tie-breaking run, pitcher Rick Wise hammered a three-run homer and Tim McCarver delivered a two-run shot. Oscar Gamble connected in the fifth.

The Dodgers used a solo homer by Willie Davis in the first inning and Bobby Valentine's two-run double in the third to beat the Mets and ace Tom Seaver. Jim Brewer relieved starter Don Sutton after the Mets scored both their runs in the seventh and snuffed out the rally.

It was the Dodgers' fourth consecutive victory and 13th in their last 17 games.

"Momentum," said Sutton. "We've got the momentum now."

"We think about winning this thing," said Richie Allen, who walked and then beat close plays at second and third to ignite the Dodgers' two-run third.

Houston climbed to within eight games of the Giants in the West and prevented Pittsburgh from increasing its 2½ game bulge over the Mets in the East when Joe Morgan walked with the bases loaded and two out in the ninth inning, forcing in the winning run.

The Pirates had tied the score in the top of the ninth on Dave Cash's two-run single. The Astros had taken the lead in the sixth on Cesar Cedeño's triple. Bob Watson's sacrifice fly and Dennis Menke's first home run of the season.

Lee May drove in four runs with a two-run homer and double as the Reds stretched St. Louis' losing streak to seven games. Hal McRae also stroked a two-run double for the winners.

Clarence Gason doubled home both San Diego runs with two out in the ninth inning to give the Padres their triumph over the Expos. Angel Bravo walked with one out, Larry Stahl singled and Dave Campbell hit into a force play before Gaston connected up the alley in right-center, spoiling Carl Morton's shutout bid.

San Diego starter Clay Kirby allowed three hits and struck out nine in eight innings.

Taylor, Tigers Stop Chisox, 4-3

By KEN RAPPOPORT Associated Press Sports Writer

The Detroit Tigers have a new Taylor with an old habit.

Tony Taylor, who helped the Philadelphia Phillies win many games in 11 years with the National League club, now is sewing up victories with his new team at Detroit.

Taylor, traded last week, made an impressive debut Sunday with three hits in a winning effort and Monday night, banged two more — including the game-winner — as the Tigers shaded the Chicago White Sox 4-3 in 10 innings.

"I'm very happy to have this kind of start in Detroit," said Taylor.

Taylor almost delivered the winning hit two innings earlier when he rifled a grass-cutter to the right side with men on first and second. But second baseman Rich McKinney made a diving stop for the final out.

The Minnesota Twins turned back the Cleveland Indians 3-1; the Kansas City Royals cut down the New York Yankees 4-1 and the Boston Red Sox tripped the California Angels 5-4 in 15 innings in the American League's other games Monday night. Milwaukee at Baltimore was postponed because of rain.

Taylor, admittedly jolted by the recent trade, is finding a home in Detroit.

"It was a shock after being traded after 11 years in Philadelphia," said Taylor, "but I've been happy in the little time I've been here."

Taylor has temporarily moved in with teammates Aurelio Rodriguez and Cesar Guterrez and is getting briefed from others on how to handle certain American League pitchers.

He sliced a 1-0 pitch just inside the right field foul line for a dramatic two-out double, chasing home Al Kaline with the winning run. It was a typical, opposite-field shot for the punch-hitting second baseman.

Dick McAuliffe's run-scoring single in the sixth inning pulled Detroit into a 3-3 tie, setting the stage for the Taylor-made victory.

Jim Perry fired a six-hitter and fanned 11 batters and Tony Oliva ripped a three-run homer in the first inning to pace the Minnesota success.

"I'm not a strikeout artist," Perry insisted, "sometimes you strike out 10 a game and the next time you don't get any. My fastball — I had good control of it early in the game and I hit some pretty good spots. This is my best game for all nine innings this year."

Tony Oliva, who also had a single to go along with his 14th homer, said: "I hit the single harder than the home run, but I hit the home run pretty hard, too."

Streaking Kansas City erupted for five singles and four runs before anyone was out in the sixth and went on to bounce New York for its sixth straight victory and 12th in 13 games.

Paul Schaaf and Amos Otis singled before Chuck Harrison's single scored Schaaf with the tying run. Lou Pinella beat out a bunt, loading the bases, Otis scored on a wild pitch with Harrison charging to third and Pinella to second. Bob Oliver then produced the final runs of the outburst with a single.

Doug Griffin's single in the last of the 15th inning sent home pinch-runner Luis Aparicio with the winning run for Boston.

Rico Petrocelli singled with one out to open the rally and took second on a wild pitch.

Aparicio, running for Petrocelli, held second as George Scott walked, then came home when Griffin delivered a line-drive shot to left.

Trevino Closing In On Nicklaus Winnings

NEW YORK (AP) — Lee Trevino, last year's leading money winner in pro golf, now is only $11,000 behind Jack Nicklaus, currently No. 1 on the 1971 list.

Nicklaus has won $146,213 while Trevino has $135,110, picking up $11,600 for his second place tie in last week's Kemper Open in which Nicklaus did not compete.

Third on the latest money winning list announced Monday by PGA Tournament Players Division is Gary Player with $117,912. Arnold Palmer is fourth at $109,829 and Miller Barber fifth at $101,943.

DuPont, O-I, Stoutsville Win In Tri County Play

Pickaway DuPont edged Laurelville, 3-0, in a Tri County Little League major clash while Pickaway Owens-Illinois downed Laurelville, 8-1, and Stoutsville crushed Washington, 23-2, minor league action Monday.

Pontius turned in another superb mound performance for the DuPonters to down Laurelville. He gave up four hits, struckout eight and once again didn't give up a free pass.

Mike Hart was on the hill for Laurelville and deserved a much better fate in the contest as he also turned in a fine pitching performance. He allowed four hits, fanned eight and failed to give up a base on balls.

Tim Fouch was the big man at the plate for DuPont. Both teams were scoreless going into the sixth frame when Fouch got his pitch and promptly rapped a double to plate two runs and tallied the third marker on a passed ball.

DENNIS Redman, Jeff Collins and Tim Davis each had a single for the Pickaway nine.

Holtschuh blasted a triple and Rudder, Hart and Arnett each had a one bagger to account for Laurelville's hits.

Hill's, CAP Win Mosquito League Tilts

Hill Implement and Circle Auto were victorious in Monday nights Mosquito League action.

Hill's Implement edged Barnhills 4-1 on diamond mound two.

Mike Linton smacked a homerun and a single while Larry Pennington hit a triple for Hill's.

The winning pitcher was Billy Archer who struck out and walked 12 and allowed five hits.

Dwight Oiler had a double and a single and Rodney Bumgardner hit two singles.

Bumgardner was the losing pitcher striking out 14 walking three and allowing six hits.

Circle Auto won over Circleville Mfg. 4-1 in another Mosquito League game.

Hitting for Circle Auto was Terry Sloan with one hit.

Brad Willoughby had two hits and Wendall Webb one hit for Circleville Mfg.

DuPont is now 3-0 for the season and will be at Stoutsville 6:30 p.m. Thursday.

Chris Fouch hurled the O-I nine to victory over Laurelville. He scattered six hits, walked three and whiffed seven.

Danny Stevens had the big hit for the winners with a bases loaded double. Brian Hanningan had two singles and Terry Wright a triple in the winning game.

Rudder and McNichols shared the hill for Laurelville giving up eight safeties, six walks and striking out six.

FOUR homeruns, including a bases loaded blast by Mark Moore, featured Stoutsville's 21st hit attack on the offerings of the Washington hurlers.

Mark Vanover crashed two four baggers and Mark Morrison added another to lead the Stoutsville attack.

Gary Bussert, Ron Davis and Morrison rapped three baggers and Robert Miller a two bagger for the winners.

Morrison tossed the win for Stoutsville allowing eight hits and five walks.

Selmer and Burnett shared mound duties for the Washington nine.

Van Burskert's double was the big blow for Washington.

Stoutsville is now 3-0 in league play.

Carpenter Denies Phillies To Be Sold

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Robert Carpenter, owner of the Philadelphia Phillies, has denied published reports that he will sell his National League Baseball club to a group of buyers headed by baseball entrepreneur Bill Veck.

A story in Monday's Philadelphia Daily News said Veck's group was prepared to offer a "blank check" for the team.

"The ball club is not for sale no matter how much money is involved," Carpenter said.

Hill's, CAP Win Mosquito League Tilts

Hill Implement and Circle Auto were victorious in Monday nights Mosquito League action.

Hill's Implement edged Barnhills 4-1 on diamond number two.

Mike Linton smacked a homerun and a single while Larry Pennington hit a triple for Hill's.

The winning pitcher was Billy Archer who struck out and walked 12 and allowed five hits.

Dwight Oiler had a double and a single and Rodney Bumgardner hit two singles.

Bumgardner was the losing pitcher striking out 14 walking three and allowing six hits.

Linton came through with an unassisted double play for Implement.

Circle Auto won over Circleville Mfg. 4-1 in another Mosquito League game.

Hitting for Circle Auto was Terry Sloan with one hit.

Player Sees U.S. Open Real Challenge

ARDMORE, Pa. (AP) — South African Gary Player takes a cautious approach to the United States Open Golf championship.

"You don't want to be too cocky going into something like this," the muscular little rancher from Johannesburg said Monday before his first practice round over the historic Marion Golf Club course.

"I am playing very well right now," said 34-year-old physical fitness addict added, then couldn't suppress a smile that crept across his handsome face.

And it's a story that makes the diminutive superstar with the powerful, sloping shoulders one of the prime candidates for the title in the most prestigious of all the world's golf tournaments, a 72-hole test that begins Thursday.

Player, one of only four men ever to sweep all four of the world's major professional titles, is enjoying one of his best years on the American circuit.

He scored consecutive victories in the Jacksonville and National Airlines Opens, was second in the Tournament of Champions, missed a tie for first in the Atlanta Classic by a single stroke, was fourth in the PGA national championship, sixth in the Masters and lost in a playoff last weekend for the Kemper Open title.

His winnings of more than $118,000 is the second best he's had in 15 years on the tour and has him closing in on fourth place on the all-time list. His stroke average is a remarkable 70.6.

Coke Defeats Hawks, 6-1

Coca Cola won over the Herald Hawks, 6-1, in Monday's major league action.

Biff Bumgarner was the winning pitcher, allowing three hits, striking out 15 and walking one.

Scott Barthelmas smacked two singles for the winning team.

Lloyd Cline was the losing pitcher, striking out four, walking two and allowing eight hits.

Bryon Edgington hit a homerun and Dennis Williams stroked two singles.

Beige Turf On The Way To Gridiron?

MIAMI (AP) — Don't wager that pro football's Super Bowl won't someday be played on a field of fleshy beige rather than today's grassy green.

Budget-priced thoroughbreds are pounding around an artificial track during Florida's sizzling summer in an experiment that could one day cool the soles of Joe Namath and Deacon Jones.

"Maybe it's the light color," said Elmer Vickers, general manager at the new Calder Race Course, "but heat hasn't been a factor."

He's right. Not a single horse has complained, although some owners are irked about apparent sore shoulders among their animals.

Calder is a $20 million racing plant that stacks customers high rather than wide and keeps even losers cool. The entire 11-story grandstand is air conditioned and not a seat is farther than 110 feet from the finish line.

Air-cooled fans watch from behind a 110-foot wall of glass as the horses stomp around what 3M company calls its "third generation artificial track."

Complainers have asked for a layer of sand to help cushion the Saf-T-Turf, already a softer version of the bogus track used at several other race emporiums around the country.

Heavy rains the last week have allowed the horses to pass the wet test with few problems of slipping.

Bruised Giants Bow To Philadelphia, 9-4

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Monday being Flag Day, the San Francisco Giants continued to wave.

The beleaguered Giants, still unable to shake the June bugs, lost for the 10th time in 13 games this month, bowing to Philadelphia 9-4. Combined with Los Angeles' 3-2 victory over the New York Mets, it pared the Giants' lead in the National League West to five games. It stood at 10½ on June 1.

Elsewhere, Houston nipped Pittsburgh 5-4, Cincinnati whipped St. Louis 7-2, the Chicago Cubs edged Atlanta 3-2 and San Diego shaded Montreal 2-1.

The day started out badly for the Giants with the announcement that slugging Willie McCovey will have his ailing knees re-examined when the team returns home Thursday and may need an operation. It didn't take long for things to get worse.

Utilityman Frank Johnson was struck in the face by a ball during infield practice and was unconscious for at least 10 minutes. X-rays were negative but Johnson was said to be suffering from "ataxia to the right," which means he veers to the right when he walks.

The Phillies then gave Gaylord Perry a severe case of ataxia to the showers, Willie Montanez started it with a first inning homer and the Phils exploded for six runs in the second.

GE Sluggers Beat DuPont

7-3 Win Is Second BR Leaders

GE outslugged Du Pont 7-3 in Monday night's Babe Ruth game for their second consecutive victory.

Doug Marshall was the winning pitcher allowing five hits, walking three, and fanning 12 at the plate.

Dave Truex and Gary Francis pitched for DuPont both giving up nine hits, striking out ten, and allowing five bases on balls.

Hitting for GE was Gary Mogan, Marshall and Taylor with two hits each.

Francis and Truex each hit twice for the losing team.

ond, their biggest outburst of the season.

Roger Freed singled in the tie-breaking run, pitcher Rick Wise hammered a three-run homer and Tim McCarver delivered a two-run shot. Oscar Gamble connected in the fifth.

The Dodgers used a solo homer by Willie Davis in the third inning and Bobby Valentine's two-run double in the third to beat the Mets and ace Tom Seaver. Jim Brewer relieved starter Don Sutton after the Mets scored both their runs in the seventh and snuffed out the rally.

It was the Dodgers' fourth consecutive victory and 13th in their last 17 games.

"Momentum," said Sutton. "We've got the momentum now."

"We think about winning this thing," said Richie Allen, who walked and then beat close plays at second and third to ignite the Dodgers' two-run third.

Houston climbed to within eight games of the Giants in the West and prevented Pittsburgh from increasing its 2½-game bulge over the Mets in the East when Joe Morgan walked with the bases loaded and two out in the ninth inning, forcing in the winning run.

The Pirates tied the score in the top of the ninth on Dave Cash's two-run single. The Astros had taken the lead in the sixth on Cesar Cedeno's triple. Bob Watson's sacrifice fly and Dennis Menke's first home run of the season.

Lee May drove in four runs with a two-run homer and double as the Reds stretched St. Louis' losing streak to seven games. Hal McRae also stroked a two-run double for the winners.

Joe Pepitone's three-run homer off Phil Niekro with two out in the eighth inning lifted the Cubs past the Braves. Phil Regan, getting his first start since August 1967, pitched eight innings and picked up the win.

Clarence Gaston doubled home both San Diego runs with two out in the ninth inning to give the Padres their triumph over the Expos. Angel Bravo walked with one out, Larry Stahl singled and Dave Campbell hit into a force play before Gaston connected up the alley in right-center, spoiling Carl Morton's shutout bid.

San Diego starter Clay Kirby allowed three hits and struck out nine in eight innings.

Cincy Stops Cardinals, 7-2; St. Louis Feels Gibson Loss

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals lost their seventh game in a row Monday night and had the sympathy of Sparky Anderson, whose Cincinnati Reds have been no world-beaters.

"Baseball's a game of momentum," said Anderson, whose club prevailed 7-2 on Lee May's four RBI and Hal McRae's two-run double.

"The Cardinals lost theirs when Bob Gibson went on the disabled list," Anderson said.

"If they had Gibson to waltz out there every fifth game, it'd be different."

The Cardinals, without Gibson since the 35-year-old pitcher suffered a pulled leg muscle May 29, suffered their 11th loss in their last 14 games.

May swatted a Jerry Reuss fast ball into the second deck of the right field bleachers, putting them behind 2-0 in the first inning.

After the Cards closed to 2-1 in the fourth, McRae followed singles by Pete Rose and May and a walk to Tony Perez with a double making it 4-1 in the sixth.

The crowning blow was May's two-run double after Ted Sizemore's error let in an earlier run in the ninth.

"May's the only big guy hitting for us," said Anderson, whose Reds are 12½ games behind National League West Division leader San Francisco.

"One of our big problems has been in not having men on base. And here it's momentum, too. We lost it when Bobby Tolan was hurt during the winter."

Anderson, however, took heart in the winning performance of 21-year-old left-hander Ross Grimsley, who struggled through 7 2-3 innings before giving way to Clay Carroll.

"He's good enough to win even on an off night," the Reds' manager said in reference to Grimsley, 4-1, who walked four and surrendered tight hits.

Tulsa Only Unbeaten In Series

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Tulsa is the only unbeaten team left in the College World Series, but the Golden Hurricane's coach thinks the series is far from over.

"We are looking for two-three games ahead," said Hurricane Coach Gene Shell after Tulsa knocked off the meet's only other unbeaten, Southern Illinois, 9-4, Monday night.

Defending champion Southern California ousted Brigham Young 8-6 and Pan American used the brilliant four-hit pitching of Andre Rabouin to eliminate Harvard 1-0 Monday to stay alive in the double-elimination tournament.

Tonight's pairings send second-ranked Pan American, 44-8, against Southern Illinois, 42-8, and Tulsa, 35-10, against Southern Cal, 50-13.

"We are not good enough to win this tournament in five games—none of the teams left is," added Shell.

Shell said junior right-hander Ray Kennett, 5-1, would start against Pan American, which is likely to go with left-hander Powell Brown, 5-1.

Nine of Houston's 11 football games this season will be played at night.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my dear husband, Emmitt Toole who passed away 6 years ago today, June 15th, 1963.
What would I give to clasp his hand
His loving face to see
Or hear him call me Kid again
That meant so much to me
My dear Saviour knows my lonely heart
And the emptiness that I feel
I just place it in his hands
And leave it all in his care
Sadly missed by wife, Mrs.
Emmitt Toole and children

Jacklin Eyes 2nd Open Win; Hit By Irish Bomb Threat

ARDMORE, Pa., (AP) — Nobody has been able to win consecutive U.S. Open Golf championships since Ben Hogan did it in 1950 and 1951. Can England's Tony Jacklin break through the jinx that seems to be hanging over the defending champion?

"I'm still hungry and there is nothing else I want to do but play golf," said Jacklin before a practice round Monday over the 6,544 yard Merion Golf Club course, scene of this week's 71st annual U.S. Open, starting Thursday.

Jacklin isn't concerned with history or jinxes, or even courses. "If I'm playing well I have a good chance," he said. "That's my problem, playing well." He said he wasn't concerned that he had never seen, let alone played Merion. "It doesn't matter. I've won on all sorts of courses."

Jacklin's main concern is that he has been in a slump. He's been in slumps before, but he says his latest one has lasted longer than any of the others.

Jacklin, who won at Hazletine last year by seven strokes with a 281, feels his game has been distracted because of the personal appearances resulting from his Open triumph.

"It's been difficult to keep my mind on my game," he said. His highest finish this year has been a tie for seventh in the Greensboro Open.

Jacklin also has been worried by a threat upon his life, and another to bomb his wife's home in Belfast. He said that he had received a cable from a newspaper that it had an anonymous call making the threats against Jacklin if he played in the Gallagher Ulster Tournament.

Jacklin is taking no chances. He has withdrawn from the Ulster Tournament scheduled for later this month. He explained that if he played it would attract a lot of attention and that he would need a police guard and there would be letters. "And besides they might do it," he added.

Twins Stop Cleveland, Win 3-1

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — "I'm no strikeout artist," said Minnesota pitcher Jim Perry Monday night after fanning 11 Indians enroute to a 3-1 victory over Cleveland.

"Sometimes you strikeout 10 a game and the next time you don't get any," he said. "My fastball—I had good control of it early in the game and I hit some pretty good spots. This is the best game for all nine innings this year."

"He called a great game," said catcher Paul Ratcliff. "His fastball was his big pitch. He's a very deceptive guy."

The Tribe collected six hits off Perry (9-5), but couldn't put them together until the ninth when Chris Chambliss and Ted Uhlaender both doubled to give the Indians their only run.

It was Tony Oliva's 14th homer that powered the Twins into the lead in the first inning. His blast came after Cesar Tovar singled and Rod Carew walked to open the game.

Oliva said he hit his single "harder than the home run, but I hit the home run pretty hard too."

The single whistled past the head of Indians starter Alan Foster (5-3).

"I no like to hit nobody," Oliva said. "I no wanna hit him."

The Twins threatened again in the fifth and sixth, but good defensive plays by third baseman Graig Nettles helped Foster out of trouble.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Reds pitcher Wayne Simpson is expected to join the team in St. Louis today, while pitcher Milt Wilcox has been optioned to the team's Indianapolis farm team.

Simpson, who had posted a 1-1 record with the Reds before being sent to Indianapolis May 13, was recalled Monday.

Wilcox, who is on summer military duty at Fort Knox, Ky., posted a 2-1 record with the Reds.

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago Cubs pitcher Ferguson Jenkins was hospitalized late Monday night suffering from "fever, headache and general malaise," a Cub spokesman said.

Dr. Jacob Suker, team physician, said Jenkins seemed to be suffering from a virus infection. He said symptoms appeared rather suddenly while Jenkins was at his home.

Cincinnati Man Files $1.25 Million Suit

CINCINNATI (AP) — A $1.25 million damage suit has been filed by a Cincinnati man, Clarence Brandenburg, against The Cincinnati Enquirer, charging he was libeled by a news item reporting he had been blacklisted by the National Socialist White People Party.

Also named as defendants in the suit, filed Monday in Hamilton County Common Pleas Court, were Enquirer editor Brady Black and Enquirer columnist Frank Weikel, in whose column the report appeared on April 13.

Former Political Columnist Represents Pakistan At UN

By ALEC COLLETT
Associated Press Writer
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.
(AP) — The tiny, attractive dark woman in the sari looks more like a poetess than the fearless newspaper columnist who was banned by two presidents of Pakistan.

But Zeb-un-Nissa Hamidullah is both, although she is better known in her native Pakistan as a political commentator.

President Yahya Khan recently introduced her to visiting royalty with the comment: "This lady has already brought down two presidents, so I have to watch my step."

Begum Hamidullah, as she is known by the Islamic honorific, is editor-publisher of the Karachi Mirror. For three months, she is on leave of absence from her monthly magazine to represent Pakistan at the 25th U. N. General Assembly.

The experience is a new one for Zeb-un-Nissa, who looks to be in her 30s but who actually is a grandmother.

A self-educated writer who left school at 15, she now sits as her country's chief representative in the assembly's Social and Humanitarian Committee.

In the large, paneled committee room with its view of New York's East River, the Begum finds herself in what she calls "a miniature world." But she confesses it is different from what she expected when she arrived last September.

"Delegates don't express opinions," said the editor of her unaccustomed role. "They are only spokesmen for their governments. And in a personal capacity, one cannot contribute very much."

The daughter of an English mother and a Muslim judge, who was something of a literary figure, Zeb-un-Nissa was born in Calcutta, and before the age of 15, her poems had been published in various newspapers and magazines. She has since published three volumes of verse, much of which she wrote as a teen-aged bride.

"I was married very young," Begum Hamidullah said, explaining she is the mother of two daughters, Nilofer, 26 and Yasmine, 21.

Zeb-un-Nissa first worked as a journalist before the Indian subcontinent was partitioned in 1947. She wrote two weekly columns: "Feminine Touch" for the Evening Star, and "Between Ourselves" for the Mornin News, both Calcutta newspapers.

She moved with her husband to west Pakistan in 1947 and there began a weekly column for Dawn, Pakistan's biggest daily newspaper.

"I wanted to bring in civil affairs and politics, and when I wrote about these things the editor of the magazine section objected," the Begum said.

The column was suspended from the Sunday women's section but Zeb-un-Nissa pursued the matter with the paper's editor until he agreed she could write a general column "on anything, including politics." So the feature was moved from the women's pages to the editorial page.

As a result, she developed an even greater interest in political issues and her column, "Thru a Woman's Eyes," assumed national significance.

In 1951 Zeb-un-Hamidullah launched her own publication, the monthly, society-oriented,

The magazine became one of Pakistan's most popular monthlies and Zeb-un-Hamidullah's editorials were a talking point from Karachi to Dacca.

So much so that former President Iskander Mirza banned the publication for six months, but the publisher took legal action and the Supreme Court reversed the ruling.

The Mirror was banned a second time by Mirza's successor, President Ahub Khan. A "selective" boycott, the presidential order prevented its sale to diplomats and to army posts.

The Begum's editorial which prompted this action called on Ayub Khan to abdicate. Charging the president with repression and mismanagement, she wrote that Pakistan "will continue to erupt as long as you, Field Marshal Ayub Khan continue as its president."

The editorial was published in Feb. 1969. Ayub Khan resigned one month later.

It is difficult to believe the mild-mannered writer who weighs only 95 pounds and stands one inch over 5 feet packs such forcefulness and conviction in her small frame. She gave up writing five years ago, however.

"Five or six years ago I found I was wearing myself out, running out of creative ideas," she said. "I was not giving my best so I stopped writing."

But she still broadcasts regularly for Radio Pakistan and has published a book of short stories, "The Young Wife."

Ruiz Denies Pointing Gun At Johnson

ANAHEIM (AP) — California Angels outfielder Alex Johnson was quoted Monday by the team's general manager, Dick Walsh, as saying teammate Chico Ruiz aimed a handgun at him in the clubhouse Sunday.

Walsh added that Ruiz called the account "preposterous."

Walsh called a news conference Monday after Bud Tucker of the San Gabriel Valley Tribune reported the alleged incident in his sports column. The writer said he learned of the incident from a reliable source.

Walsh said he spoke with both players before Monday night's game with the Boston Red Sox. Both were in uniform for the game, but neither was in the starting lineup. During the game, Johnson sat on the Angels' bench and Ruiz, a utility infielder, sat in the bullpen.

Johnson, Walsh said, told him that during the ninth inning of Sunday's game with Washington, after both he and Ruiz had appeared as pinch hitters, "Ruiz produced a handgun and aimed it in his direction while both were sitting in front of their respective lockers."

"Johnson said no verbal threat was made," Walsh said. "He also said Ruiz then put the weapon in the back pocket of his uniform and went back to the dugout."

Tight Race Seen For All-Star Slot

NEW YORK (AP) — A tight race shapes up for the catching berth on the American League All-Star team—held for the past five years by Detroit's Bill Freehan—after two weeks of balloting.

Figures released by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn Monday showed Freehan with a slim 610-vote lead over Ray Fosse of Cleveland.

There were no lead changes in the second - week returns, which showed Boston outfielder Carl Yastrzemski topping the ballot with 156,279 of the 275,000 votes cast.

State Supports Deer Creek Development

Deer Creek Reservoir was recipient of a part of more than $40 million in expenditures approved Monday by the State Controlling Board for a variety of projects throughout Ohio.

Deer Creek's portion of the grants was $225,000 directed for cooperative improvements at the reservoir site.

Some $28.2 million was approved for new construction and other facilities at state universities. Another $9.1 million will go for construction of sewage treatment facilities and $2 million for expansion and improvement of state parks.

The board supervises spending of state money, releasing funds appropriated by the General Assembly.

Among the principal university projects were $8.8 million for a library and physical education building at Wright State University and $3 million for Ohio State University's Agricultural Technical Institute at Wooster.

Also included in the higher education expenditures was more than $4.5 million for expansion of educational television services in the state. There are now eight educational TV stations and five more are planned.

The sewage treatment appropriations included more than $5 million requested by the Ohio Water Development Authority for construction of facilities for Canton.

Another $1.9 million was authorized for construction of facilities at the Lucas County Metropolitan Sewer District Maumee River Waste Water Treatment Plant.

The board approved $500,000 for construction of a recreational boating facility in Cincinnati.

Also approved were appropriations of $330,000 for the highway department study on creation of a Department of Transportation and $743,537 for construction of a pre-Civil War Ohio village complex at the Ohio Historical Center in Columbus.

Neo-Fascists Score Gains

ROME (AP) — Strong neo-fascist gains in Italian local elections Sunday and Monday are expected to increase the pressure on Premier Emilio Colombo for more conservative policies.

Political observers saw no immediate danger to Colombo's center-left coalition government. But right-wingers in the premier's Christian Democratic party and members of the Democratic Socialists, one the smaller coalition parties, already were urging Colombo to get on the anti-Communist, law and order bandwagon which the Neo-Fascists rode in their campaign.

By contrast the Socialists, the No. 2 party in the government, urged Colombo to seek support from the masses by fulfilling his commitments for reform legislation and resisting the swing to the right.

The voting was for a regional legislature in Sicily and municipal councils in 158 cities and towns, including Rome, Genoa, Bari and Foggia. About a fifth of Italy's 35 million voters live in the areas that voted.

COSTS KNOCK OUT SUPPER CLUBS—Rising business costs have put the lights out in many major supper clubs around the country and rising salaries for top performers are helping in their demise. Detroit Police Seeking 4 Men In Mass Slaying

DETROIT (AP) — Homicide detectives sought four men and a motive today for the mass slaying of seven young persons in the bloodiest massacre in Detroit crime history.

The victims, three men and four women 18 to 27 years old, were shot to death and another man was wounded critically about 4:30 a.m. Monday in what police believe was a narcotics center on the city's Near Northwest Side.

Four men were seen fleeing the two-story flat shortly after neighbors were awakened by about a dozen shots. Police found cartridges of at least three different calibers at the scene.

Investigators said they did not know whether the four men were involved in the mass killing or if they were fleeing for their lives.

Two women and one man told police they fled from the house moments before the shooting by diving through the glass of a back sunporch and running down an alley.

Inspector James Bannon, head of a 20-man investigating team, said the three reported to police voluntarily shortly after the shootings. He declined to furnish their names or details of their statements.

There was speculation that the slayings were the outgrowth of a gangland struggle over control of the lucrative narcotics trade in the Detroit area. Up to 50 killings in recent months have been linked to an alleged dope war, some investigators say.

Bannon expressed doubt about the gangland war theory but did not rule out such a possibility. He indicated the rash of slayings may be the result of holdups at known narcotics hangouts, where large sums of cash usually are kept.

"We don't know whether it was a robbery that went awry or whether something else, such as drugs, was involved," he said.

If the killers were seeking money, however, they overlooked $673 found on the seven slaying victims and the wounded man, Robert Gardner, 28. Police said the cash included five $100 bills.

Gardner, who occupied the flat in the predominantly black neighborhood, remained in critical condition late Monday. A heavy police guard was posted outside his room at Henry Ford Hospital. Doctors said he had about a 50-50 chance to survive the two gunshot wounds in his chest.

Teen Enjoys Mexico Study

Geri Trecker, a 15-year-old Circleville girl, had the opportunity to travel to Mexico this spring with ten other students from Margaret Hall, an Episcopal school for girls in Versailles, Ky.

Geri recently returned home from a six-week stay in Guadalajara, Mexico, at the school's facility there. She was part of an experimental group permitted to live there while continuing their education independently.

The eleven girls took their own school books to Mexico and a full list of assignments to be completed upon their return. Each girl studied independently, while learning Spanish by the Peace Corps methods, largely listening and speaking with natives, under the supervision of a trained instructor.

Geri and her companions lived in a large house in Guadalajara with a Mexican family who cared for the house, cleaning and cooking.

The Circleville girl, who will be a junior next year, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Trecker.

Name DeLong As Delegate

Circleville resident Dale DeLong was one of ten persons who have been named delegates to the 1972 general conference of the United Methodist Church.

DeLong will be among 36 persons elected by the Ohio West church division to travel to Atlanta, Ga. for the annual assembly. His election to the position was announced Monday after balloting at the division conference being held at Lakeside, Ohio.

A British Methodist clergyman, the Rev. Lord Donald Soper, told the Ohio West conference delegates Monday night that if the Christian faith is to survive, "we must discover nonviolent love and build a non-predatory society."

Lord Soper will address the conference delegates again tonight.

Election results on the first night of balloting resulted in election of ten persons to the 1972 general assembly of United Methodist Church representatives.

Four ministers elected were the Rev. Dr. William K. Messmer, Columbus, administrative assistant to Bishop F. Gerald Ennsley; the Rev. Paul Stuckey, Westerville; the Rev. Robert Byler, Bexley; and the Rev. Joseph Graham, superintendent of the Athens District.

DeLong was one of the six laymen elected. Others were Highland County Common Pleas Judge Darrell Hottle of Hillsboro; Cincinnati attorney Leonard Slutz; Harold Boda, Dayton; Donald Hawkins, Toledo, and Kenneth Hunt, Casstown.

Balloting continues today. Delegates must elect 10 former Methodist ministers, eight former Evangelical United Brethren ministers, 10 former Methodist lay people and eight former EUB lay people.

Another 42 delegates are to be elected later and the combined 78-member delegation will attend the North Central Jurisdictional Conference July, 1972, in Indianapolis.

Vandals, Thieves Hit Area Schools

Pickaway County Sheriff's Department is investigating a vandalism at Scioto Township School and a petty larceny at Williamsport School.

Four windows, valued at $25, were broken at the Scioto School sometime Monday.

Westfall Band Jackets, Records Have Arrived

Westfall band members who purchased band jackets and recordings of the band performance are advised today that the orders have arrived.

Director James Kibby will be on hand at the school between 5 and 6 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday to distribute the jackets and records.

New Social Security Bill Tied To Cost Of Living

WASHINGTON (AP) — The pending Social Security bill eventually will increase benefits to $1,300 a month for a typical retired couple, the Social Security Administration estimates.

By contrast, a 65-year-old man and wife retiring this year will receive $280.20 a month if the husband worked at the median wage each year of his employment.

Projections of benefits that could develop if the bill becomes law were made available in the wake of public attention given payroll-tax hikes written into the legislation on which the House may vote next week.

The maximum payment by an employee, matched by his employer, is $405.60 this year. The maximum, under the bill, will go to at least $754.80 in 1977, an 86-per-cent increase.

But Social Security mathematicians, using the man in the middle, developed figures showing a highly favorable benefit-to-contribution ratio.

The legislation introduces new variables into Social Security by linking future contributions and benefits to the cost of living and wage levels, so the calculations are based on estimates of what may happen in the next 30 years.

Here's an example:

Mr. A, a median earner, and his wife are 36 and will retire at 65 in January 2000. A will live to be 78 and Mrs. A will live three years after her husband's death.

At the time of retirement, the couple's monthly benefit, under terms of the pending bill and Social Security's economic assumptions, would be $1,012.50. Under present law, they would receive only $414.90.

By the last year of A's life—still under the new bill—the couple would be receiving $1,311.90 a month. After A's death, the widow would receive a benefit starting at $915.80 and reaching $958.90.

Over his working years, A would have contributed $30,905 in payroll taxes, 78 per cent more than present law would require. But he and his wife would draw out in cash benefits $213,919, or 193 per cent more than present law provides. In addition, they would have Medicare, currently estimated to be worth $31 a month, and he would have had protection during his working years against disability and death while his children were minors.

Street Fair Opens In New Holland

New Holland's annual street carnival opens tonight in New Holland. Amusement rides and concessions will line Main St. from Front St. (U.S. 22) to Center St.

Arch Post 477, American Legion, sponsors, will have a fish fry every day of the carnival which runs through Saturday.

Proceeds of the event will be used to support the annual Halloween parade and Christmas party for the community's youngsters, also for charity.

Deer Creek's portion of the grants was $225,000 directed for cooperative improvements at the reservoir site.

Some $28.2 million was approved for new construction and other facilities at state universities. Another $9.1 million will go for construction of sewage treatment facilities and $2 million for expansion and improvement of state parks.

The board supervises spending of state money, releasing funds appropriated by the General Assembly.

Among the principal university projects were $8.8 million for a library and physical education building at Wright State University and $3 million for Ohio State University's Agricultural Technical Institute at Wooster.

Also included in the higher education expenditures was more than $4.5 million for expansion of educational television services in the state. There are now eight educational TV stations and five more are planned.

The sewage treatment appropriations included more than $5 million requested by the Ohio Water Development Authority for construction of facilities for Canton.

Another $1.9 million was authorized for construction of facilities at the Lucas County Metropolitan Sewer District Maumee River Waste Water Treatment Plant.

The board approved $500,000 for construction of a recreational boating facility in Cincinnati. Also approved were appropriations of $330,000 for the highway department study on creation of a Department of Transportation and $743,537 for construction of a pre-Civil War Ohio village complex at the Ohio Historical Center in Columbus.

Neo-Fascists Score Gains

ROME (AP) — Strong neo-Fascist gains in Italian local elections Sunday and Monday are expected to increase the pressure on Premier Emilio Colombo for more conservative policies.

Political observers saw no immediate danger to Colombo's center-left coalition government. But right-wingers in the premier's Christian Democratic party and members of the Democratic Socialists, one the smaller coalition parties, already were urging Colombo to get on the anti-Communist, law and order bandwagon which the Neo-Fascists rode in their campaign.

By contrast the Socialists, the No. 2 party in the government, urged Colombo to seek support from the masses by fulfilling his commitments for reform legislation and resisting the swing to the right.

The voting was for a regional legislature in Sicily and municipal councils in 158 cities and towns, including Rome, Genoa, Bari and Foggia. About a fifth of Italy's 35 million voters live in the areas that voted.

Lightning Hits Barn

A bolt of lightning was blamed for a barn fire 4:32 p.m. Monday in Ashville.

Harrison Township Fire Department fought the blazing building which belonged to Mrs. Gladys Cummins.

Damage to the structure was set at $500 and the contents at $150.

COSTS KNOCK OUT SUPPER CLUBS—Rising business costs have put the lights out in many major supper clubs around the country and rising salaries for top performers are helping in their demise. John Bertera, manager of the successful Holiday House near Pittsburgh, says he booked Pearl Bailey 10 years ago for $9,000 and can't book her today because she gets high prices for TV performances. Phyllis Diller and Al Martino are getting $15,000 today, received $1,000 the first time. Wayne Newton and Liberace also are priced out of range.

Detroit Police Seeking 4 Men In Mass Slaying

DETROIT (AP) — Homicide detectives sought four men and a motive today for the mass slaying of seven young persons in the bloodiest massacre in Detroit crime history.

The victims, three men and four women 18 to 27 years old, were shot to death and another man was wounded critically about 4:30 a.m. Monday in what police believe was a narcotics center on the city's Near Northwest Side.

Four men were seen fleeing the two-story flat shortly after neighbors were awakened by about a dozen shots. Police found cartridges of at least three different calibers at the scene.

Investigators said they did not know whether the four men were involved in the mass killing or if they were fleeing for their lives.

Two women and one man told police they fled from the house moments before the shooting by diving through the glass of a back sunporch and running down an alley.

Inspector James Bannon, head of a 20-man investigating team, said the three reported to police voluntarily shortly after the shootings. He declined to furnish their names or details of their statements.

There was speculation that the slayings were the outgrowth of a gangland struggle over control of the lucrative narcotics trade in the Detroit area. Up to 50 killings in recent months have been linked to an alleged dope war, some investigators say.

Bannon expressed doubt about the gangland war theory but did not rule out such a possibility. He indicated the rash of slayings may be the result of holdups at known narcotics hangouts, where large sums of cash usually are kept.

"We don't know whether it was a robbery that went awry or whether something else, such as drugs, was involved," he said.

If the killers were seeking money, however, they overlooked $673 found on the seven slaying victims and the wounded man, Robert Gardner, 23. Police said the cash included five $100 bills.

Gardner, who occupied the flat in the predominantly black neighborhood, remained in critical condition late Monday. A heavy police guard was posted outside his room at Henry Ford Hospital. Doctors said he had about a 50-50 chance to survive the two gunshot wounds in his chest.

Teen Enjoys Mexico Study

Geri Trecker, a 15-year-old Circleville girl, had the opportunity to travel to Mexico this spring with ten other students from Margaret Hall, an Episcopal school for girls in Versailles, Ky.

Geri recently returned home from a six-week stay in Guadalajara, Mexico, at the school's facility there. She was part of an experimental group permitted to live there while continuing their education independently.

The eleven girls took their own school books to Mexico and a full list of assignments to be completed upon their return. Each girl studied independently, while learning Spanish by the Peace Corps methods, largely listening and speaking with natives, under the supervision of a trained instructor.

Geri and her companions lived in a large house in Guadalajara with a Mexican family who cared for the house, cleaning and cooking.

The Circleville girl, who will be a junior next year, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Trecker.

Name DeLong As Delegate

Circleville resident Dale DeLong was one of ten persons who have been named delegates to the 1972 general conference of the United Methodist Church.

DeLong will be among 35 persons elected by the Ohio West church division to travel to Atlanta, Ga. for the annual assembly. His election to the position was announced Monday after balloting at the division conference being held at Lakeside, Ohio.

A British Methodist clergyman, the Rev. Lord Donald Soper, told the Ohio West conference delegates Monday night that if the Christian faith is to survive, "we must discover nonviolent love and build a non-predatory society."

Lord Soper will address the conference delegates again tonight.

Election results on the first night of balloting resulted in election of ten persons to the 1972 general assembly of United Methodist Church representatives.

Four ministers elected were the Rev. Dr. William K. Messmer, Columbus, administrative assistant to Bishop F. Gerald Ensley; the Rev. Paul Stuckey, Westerville; the Rev. Robert Byler, Bexley; and the Rev. Joseph Graham, superintendent of the Athens District.

DeLong was one of the six laymen elected. Others were Highland County Common Pleas Judge Darrell Hottle of Hillsboro; Cincinnati attorney Leonard Slutz; Harold Boda, Dayton; Donald Hawkins, Toledo; and Kenneth Hunt, Casstown.

Balloting continues today. Delegates must elect 10 former Methodist ministers, eight former Evangelical United Brethren ministers, 10 former Methodist lay people and eight former EUB lay people.

Another 42 delegates are to be elected later and the combined 78-member delegation will attend the North Central Jurisdictional Conference July, 1972, in Indianapolis.

Vandals, Thieves Hit Area Schools

Pickaway County Sheriff's Department is investigating a vandalism at Scioto Township School and a petty larceny at Williamsport School.

Four windows, valued at $25, were broken at the Scioto School sometime Monday.

Westfall Band Jackets, Records Have Arrived

Westfall band members who purchased band jackets and recordings of the band performance are advised today that the orders have arrived.

Director James Kibby will be on hand at the school between 5 and 6 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday to distribute the jackets and records.

New Social Security Bill Tied To Cost Of Living

WASHINGTON (AP) — The pending Social Security bill eventually will increase benefits to $1,300 a month for a typical retired couple, the Social Security Administration estimates.

By contrast, a 65-year-old man and wife retiring this year will receive $280.20 a month if the husband worked at the median wage each year of his employment.

Projections of benefits that could develop if the bill becomes law were made available in the wake of public attention given payroll-tax hikes written into the legislation on which the House may vote next week.

The maximum payment by an employee, matched by his employer, is $405.60 this year. The maximum, under the bill, will go to at least $754.80 in 1977, an 86-per-cent increase.

But Social Security mathematicians, using the man in the middle, developed figures showing a highly favorable benefit-to-contribution ratio.

The legislation introduces new variables into Social Security by linking future contributions and benefits to the cost of living and wage levels, so the calculations are based on estimates of what may happen in the next 30 years.

Here's an example:

Mr. A, a median earner, and his wife are 36 and will retire at 65 in January 2000. A will live to be 78 and Mrs. A will live three years after her husband's death.

At the time of retirement, the couple's monthly benefit, under terms of the pending bill and Social Security's economic assumptions, would be $1,012.50. Under present law, they would receive only $114.90.

By the last year of A's life—still under the new bill—the couple would be receiving $1,311.90 a month. After A's death, the widow would receive a benefit starting at $915.80 and reaching $958.90.

Over his working years, A would have contributed $30,905 in payroll taxes, 78 per cent more than present law would require. But he and his wife would draw out in cash benefits $213,919, or 193 per cent more than present law provides. In addition, they would have Medicare, currently estimated to be worth $31 a month, and he would have had protection against disability and death while his children were minors.

Street Fair Opens In New Holland

New Holland's annual street carnival opens tonight in New Holland. Amusement rides and concessions will line Main St. from Front St. (U.S. 22) to Center St.

Arch Post 477, American Legion, sponsors, will have a fish fry every day of the carnival which runs through Saturday.

Proceeds of the event will be used to support the annual Halloween parade and Christmas party for the community's youngsters, also for charity.
